Sheriff's Department releases names of several indicted by Grand Jury

The following is a partial list of those indicted by the July Hancock County Grand Jury.

The names of those who were indicted but have not yet been served with the indictments have not been released by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. All those listed below have been released on bond unless otherwise specified.

The list includes James D. Deaton, armed robbery; Joseph Curet, burglary of a dwelling; Leroy Taylor, three counts sale of controlled substance; Lejay Brewer, two counts sale of controlled substance; Jules Mollere, two counts sale of marijuana; Sam Dorsey, sale of controlled substance; and William Carter, three counts sale of controlled substance, being held in Hancock County Jail.

Also included are Andy Favre, Andy Schoonmaker, Richard Criss, Buford Christmas, and Charles Necaise, all one count, sale of controlled substance; Walter Carter, three counts sale of controlled substance; Wayne Russell Shackelfore, aggravated assault; and Deborah Burge, eight counts writing bad checks.

Also indicted were James Michael Smith, vehicular homicide; Rodney Signorelli, receiving stolen property; Elwood Martin, six counts receiving stolen property, in jail in Houston, Texas; Rodney Slade, three counts sale of controlled substance and one count possession; Calvin Pritchett, grand larceny-auto, in Hancock County Jail; and Richard Nephew, sale of controlled substance, in Hancock County Jail.

Supervisors announce budget hearing date

By DENA BISNETTE

In a brief business meeting Monday, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors announced a public hearing on its 1984-85 budget for 10 a.m. August 15.

The board also approved a request from the Diamondhead Fire Protection District for continuation of a two-mill tax currently being paid by the district's residents. The tax is levied by the county and is used to help pay for fire protection in the Diamondhead area.

In other business, Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge requested a resolution commending Terry Ladner, who recently had an ice house built at Bayou Cadet.

"Even though it is a private enterprise, it is a service to the public,"

Courge said, noting that the fishermen at Bayou Cadet have had trouble getting ice in the past.

The board approved the resolution. The board also granted final approval to the county motor vehicle assessment and accepted the report of the July Grand Jury into its minutes.

The next meeting is July 30 at 9 a.m.

Bay Council discusses HUD project

By DENA BISNETTE

Much of the Bay St. Louis City Council meeting Tuesday was taken up by matters pertaining to a Housing and Urban Development-funded housing rehabilitation project.

The council met to open bids on heating units for several homes being rehabilitated as part of the project and accepted a bid for $5,148 from Mel's Electrical and Refrigeration Service on the recommendation of Ron Murray Consultants, Inc., the firm overseeing the project.

In a related matter, Melvin Sofra addressed the council regarding previous bids for supplying the same heating units accepted Tuesday night. Sofra had bid for the job on a previous occasion but his bid was rejected as too high. After his bid was rejected, the project was re-advertised and a second bid was obtained from one of Sofra's competitors. That bid was also rejected as too high.

Sofra wanted to know what procedure the council had used for determining that the bids were to be rejected.

According to the councilmen, bids related to the HUD housing project are subject to rejection on recommendation of Ron Murray Consultants. Herman Briggs, a representative of that firm, told Sofra his original bid was recommended for rejection after it was compared with similar bids for previous projects. His competitor's bid was rejected because it was less than 10 percent lower than Sofra's bid.

In another action related to the housing project, the council accepted a letter from Gulf Coast Community Action Agency into its minutes. The letter informs the board that $500 in materials is available through the agency's weatherization program for the repair of two homes already accepted for the HUD project.

It also informs the board that any fur-

Mistrial declared

Corkern jury hung

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Circuit Court Judge James Thomas declared a mistrial in the capital murder trial of Robert Corkern, 22, of Shoreline Park after jurors informed him Wednesday night they were 'hopelessly deadlocked.'

Corkern is charged with capital murder in the Jan. 27 shooting death of Gerald Comiskey, 34, at Comiskey's home on Dubuc Lane in Waveland.

Also killed that night was Keith McMillian, 20, of New Orleans.

Corkern's co-defendant in the incident, Allen Nicolaou, 19, who is to be tried separately, testified for the prosecution during Corkern's trial this week.

The jury began its deliberations at 5:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Thomas declared a mistrial two hours later.

After announcing he had received a note from the jury room advising him the jury was deadlocked, Thomas called the jury back into the courtroom.

"I do not want to know, nor do I want it known, how you are split insofar as X number for guilty or X number for not guilty," Thomas warned.

"I understand you are split at eight for one verdict and four for another."

"Can you tell me," Thomas asked the foreman, "if, given more time, you believe you can reach a verdict in this case?"

"In my opinion I do not think so," the foreman responded.

"You are hopelessly deadlocked?" Thomas asked the jury, and most jurors nodded affirmatively.

"I would give you more time if I thought it would do any good, but I'm not sure it would," Thomas commented prior to declaring a mistrial.

After the jury was released, Defense Attorneys Yvonne Chapman Sills and Nicholas Haas asked Thomas to reduce the charges and make bond available to Corkern, who has been incarcerated in the Hancock County Jail since Jan. 28.

Thomas said he did not have the power to reduce the charges.

Noting that although bail is not usually reduced until after a second trial, he told defense attorneys he would consider releasing Corkern on bond if they would file a written motion to that effect.

The court indicated a second trial will be scheduled probably during the October court term.

Corkern did not react visibly to the outcome of the three-day trial, which was prosecuted by Assistant District Attorneys J.P. Compretta and Gray Burdick.

NICOLAOU TESTIFIES

Taking the stand Wednesday morning as a prosecution witness, Nicolaou testified that he had been living with Comiskey and was involved in a homosexual relationship with him but they had had a falling-out and he had moved out of Comiskey's bedroom and McMillian had moved in.

He admitted shooting Comiskey and McMillian.

Earlier in the evening at Corkern's in-laws' house, he said, Corkern's mother, referring to Nicolaou, had asked if he were a boy or a girl.

Back at the Comiskey house, he said, Corkern repeated that story.

"Mr. Comiskey said, 'Well, Allen, TRIAL—Page 5A

Former Bay swim coach competes at age 56

By DENA BISNETTE

At 55, former Bay St. Louis swimming instructor Ann Porter discovered something she had never previously known she had — the ability to swim competitively.

Mrs. Porter, who has lived in Mobile, Ala., since leaving Bay St. Louis in 1976, taught others to swim for years but entered her first competition only last September.

"I had coached a swim team but the thought of swimming competitively had never entered my brain," she said in a recent telephone interview. "I'm thrilled to death that I can do it at my age. I'm 56 now but God's given me the strength to do it."

"Swimming is definitely a part of my life and I just thank the Lord for allowing the privilege of touching so many people's lives through it," she added.

Mrs. Porter has touched many lives through her swimming, starting with those of Bay St. Louis children she taught from 1960 to 1974 and coached on a swim team from 1964 to 1967. At one point during the early 1960's, she operated a city program using 17 local teenagers to teach about 500 children swimming skills in an assembly line fashion.

After leaving Bay St. Louis, she continued teaching at the Chandler Branch

YMCA in Mobile until 1978.

The idea of competing came to Mrs. Porter after she began swimming at the YMCA in an adult program. "I work at the Alabama Baptist Children's Home with my husband Ed. We're houseparents for a group of retarded children and I decided I needed a release, something to do with my spare time," she explained.

Mrs. Porter joined a masters swim team for swimmers age 25 or older. She went to one swim meet with that group and has been competing ever since.

"I surprised myself, especially at one meet where we swam Pensacola Bay and I was the oldest woman in the meet. I definitely think my swimming background helps me, but I give Jesus Christ the glory for making all this possible at my age," Mrs. Porter said.

She has won ribbons and trophies in meets including the New Orleans Mardi Gras Masters Swim Meet, St. Patrick's Day Masters Swim Meet in Pensacola and the Pensacola Bay Swim.

Her most recent competition was the World's Fair Masters Swimming Championship Meet in New Orleans and she is looking forward to competing in the U.S. National Masters Long Course Meet in Raleigh, N.C., next month.

Pearlington resident injured in US-90 motorcycle crash

Harold Goins of Pearlington this week was released from Hancock General Hospital after treatment of injuries sustained in a motorcycle crash Friday.

Goins was injured in a two-vehicle accident on old US-90 near Pearlington. According to a Hancock County Sheriff's Department report, Goins was injured at about 2:30 a.m. while he was driving a Yamaha motorcycle that crashed into the back of a Chevrolet pickup being driven by Joseph P. Rizzuto of Chalmette, La.

Rizzuto was not injured in the crash, which totaled the motorcycle and damaged the rear end of the truck.

Drug case defendant dies in auto accident

Winslow Byrne, one of four men arrested in April in a Hancock County drug raid, died Monday in an auto accident in Barnstable, Mass.

Barnstable authorities said Byrne, 40, of Sandwich, Mass., apparently lost control of his vehicle when it ran into a highway median. The car skidded about 90 feet from the median and exploded.

Byrne was arrested in April on charges of possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver and was recently fined $50,000 and given a 10-year sentence with five years suspended by Judge J. Ruble Griffin.

Additional charges of conspiracy to violate the state's drug laws were filed against Byrne shortly after his arrest but were dropped during plea bargaining procedures.

Byrne gave a Wakefield, R.I. address when arrested but said when he was sentenced that he planned to move to Massachusetts.

Sheriff investigating Cadet shrimp thefts

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is still investigating the theft of about 600 pounds of shrimp from two boats left overnight in Bayou Cadet.

About 300 pounds of shrimp were reported missing last Friday from a boat belonging to L.J. Fountain. The same day, the same amount was reported missing from James Ingersoll's boat.

The shrimp was apparently taken from the two boats by another boat between 3 p.m. last Thursday and 4 a.m. the following day.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Eddie (Bubba) Jake Wilkerson wishes to express its deepest appreciation to all the many relatives and friends for their thoughtfulness during our hour of grief.

Special thanks to Doctor James C. Crittenden and nursing staff of Hancock General Hospital, Rev. Lawrence Collins and members of Morning Star Baptist Church.

May God bless each of you.

ACUTE HEAD PAINS

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

Acute head pains that would begin at the base of her head and eventually extend to the sides, top and front of her head. They would last for days, and the even would wake up with them. Previous tests revealed no brain lesion and sedatives only slightly dulled the pains. Finally, she arranged an appointment at our office. We made a complete Chiropractic examination and spinal x-rays and found the spinal bones at the base of her neck were twisted out of place squeezing the nerves, making them irritated and hot. Within a week her pains were gone and a short time later good correction of the spinal bones was achieved and she has not experienced a return of these headaches since. If you suffer with headaches, pills will help the pain, but Chiropractic may end the problem by locating and removing the basic cause and add life to your years and years to your life in the process.

their approval needed for the work on the two houses needs to be obtained as soon as possible, because the weatherization program ends in September.

The council also heard from the Citizens Advisory Committee, which requested the listing of Clifton Wilkerson's home as a special case for the HUD project. The listing is needed to speed repairs to the building. The council authorized Briggs to prepare any documentation needed for compliance with the request.

In other business, the council granted Mr. and Mrs. Gene Taylor a variance needed for the construction of a one-story addition to their residence; authorized the city clerk to draw up specifications for bids on a metal building for the storage of chemicals presently kept in a city-owned warehouse; and set a public hearing on this year's motor vehicle assessment for August 7 at 7 p.m.

The council meets again on July 31 at 7 p.m.

Bay school board takes bids

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Municipal School Board met Monday to open bids for portable classrooms for North Bay Elementary School.

The board accepted a bid of $32,500 from Stribling Brothers of Jackson for a double-sized trailer and its installation. The trailer will be divided with a partition and will be used as two classrooms, Superintendent J.D. McCullough told the board.

The board also decided to advertise for bids for repair of a walkway canopy on the Carroll Avenue side of Bay Junior High School. Separate bids will be taken for repair of a leaky covering on a similar walkway on the Ulmann Avenue side of the building. In personnel matters, the board authorized McCullough to apply for renewal of an emergency teaching certificate for Rebecca J. Montgomery, who was originally certified to teach in another field but is now working on certification in special education. She has been teaching special education in the Bay School District for the past year and needs the certificate in order to continue.

In other business, the board granted a request from Extension Home Economist Darlene Underwood for the use of the Bay High School home economics facilities for a 4-H sewing class and accepted bids on supplies for the 1984-85 school year.

State questions waste plan

The Mississippi Department of Energy and Transportation has telegraphed the U.S. Department of Energy to lodge protests on two issues which may affect the state, but are not clearly explained in the federal Mission Plan for the Civilian Radioactive Waste Management Program.

The Mission Plan was developed by the Department of Energy to describe how a nuclear waste site will be located, how the waste will be handled and transported, and how permanent storage will be achieved.

Mississippi has two of nine potential sites being considered for the repository location.

The elimination of sites in the selection process is the subject of the first comment sent to the Department of Energy.

"This state has been on record on several occasions appealing to the department to develop and publish for comment the methodology to be utilized..." stated the telegram sent by W. G.

Ball, executive director of the Department of Energy and Transportation.

The sites will be narrowed from nine to five in late summer, and from five to three in January 1985.

How this selection is to be made has not been revealed in the Mission Plan, and no further tests will be conducted to provide new information to assist in the selection process.

The second issue is one concerning site characterization studies. These extensive studies will require two large-diameter mine shafts to be excavated in the three sites selected in January 1985.

Federal law requires that there be three "qualified" sites, that is, sites which are suitable for development as repositories from which the first repository is selected. The State of Mississippi requested that the Department of Energy state at what point site characterization that the "qualified" sites will be named—before characterization begins, during the study, or after completion of characterization.

Additional technical comments and questions regarding the Mission Plan were submitted by the Mississippi Nuclear Waste Technical Review Committee, the Mississippi Nuclear Waste Policy Advisory Council, the Mississippi Mineral Resources Institute, the MDET Nuclear Program staff, and Mr. Donald F.X. Finn of Natchez.

The Department of Energy received comments on the Mission Plan from other states and the public, and will issue a final version to Congress in August.

Coast trio sentenced in federal tax cases

Three professional and business men from the Gulf Coast were sentenced in U.S. District Court recently, each charged with willfully failing to file income tax returns with the Internal Revenue Service.

Ernest L. Shelton III of Gulfport, an attorney; Vernon L. Veazey of Gulfport, an insurance executive; and Walter E. Shettlemore of Long Beach, a certified public accountant, each received suspended prison sentences of one year, probationary period of five years, and fine of $10,000.

U.S. Magistrate Roper placed conditions on the probationary period of each of the defendants, including payment of all back taxes with penalties and interest due, payment of all future income taxes due by April 15 of each year, and service to public service and community projects.

If each of the defendants does not fulfill any one of the conditions of probation, Roper reminded each of them that the alternative would be one-year imprisonment.

"Under the tax law persons convicted of criminal tax offenses, in addition to whatever criminal sentence is imposed, are required to pay the tax determined to be due, along with all interest and civil penalties that may be assessed."

If you think of beer just as a tasty thirst-quencher, you're missing out on an excellent cookery treat, a star in many cuisines over the world.

The classic almost-the-national-dish of Belgium, the Carbonnades Flamande, is a hearty pork or beef and beer stew, a robust meal. And, of course, what would a Welsh Rabbit be without that added beer?

And, when you use beer as part of the liquid when boiling shrimp, it adds an intriguing, not quite bitter tang to the shrimp.

I often cook shrimp in a beer and water mixture, using three parts of stale beer (open the beer and let it sit around awhile before using it) to one part water, adding peppercorns, salt, a bayleaf or so, cayenne pepper and onions and lemons, then cooking just a few minutes, or until the shrimp are barely pink, then draining and cooling them.

But one of my favorite uses for beer in cooking is as a batter for deep frying shrimp, chicken, sliced eggplant and other delicious edibles. For a long time I seemed to get the batter too thick, but finally I learned to make it a bit thinner, with better results.

Beer-Battered Shrimp

Coast Style

Mix together two tablespoons of vegetable oil, one beaten egg and $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 cup of beer.

Sift in a cup of flour, add a generous dash of pepper and salt, and about a $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon of sugar, along with a teaspoon of baking powder, and blend well. Be sure that the batter isn't too thick.

I often add a generous pinch of cayenne pepper, but this may be a bit too spicy for your taste. Dip the peeled shrimp into the batter, fry in deep hot oil and enjoy. Increase quantities of batter, of course, as needed, depending upon the amount of shrimp.

Tips offered for pet care during vacations

Pet owners making vacation plans can obtain three helpful publications to assist them in obtaining proper care for the family pet.

If the family wants to take a pet along on a motor trip but isn't sure about accommodations, the all-new 1983-84 edition of "Touring With Towser" should also go along in the glove compartment.

The 64-page directory lists nearly 2,000 independently-owned hotels and motels that accept guests with pets along with nine nationwide chains that also put the welcome mat out for pets. Addresses and telephone numbers are included for making reservations in advance.

"Touring With Towser" can be obtained by sending a check for $1.25 to Gaines TWT, P.O. Box 8172, Kankakee, IL 60902.

If the family pet isn't included in vacation plans, but proper care while away is a problem, "Where To Buy, Board Or Train A Dog" lists thousands of kennels where a dog can be bought, trained or boarded.

OLD ENGLISH SHEPHERD

The 96-page directory, which also lists helpful hints for dog owners and prospective dog owners, is available by writing to Gaines Kennel Directory, P.O. Box 8172, Kankakee, IL 60902.

"How to Select A Boarding Kennel" is a 28-page booklet containing many helpful suggestions for pet owners who need substitute pet care while on vacation.

The booklet is published by the American Boarding Kennels Association to assist pet owners in evaluating, selecting and working with a local boarding kennel to give a pet a happy and safe boarding experience. ABKA member kennels are also listed.

This booklet can be obtained by sending a check for $1 to American Boarding Kennels Association, 311 N. Union, Colorado Springs, CO 80809.

July Grand Jury repeats jail plea

The Grand Jury last week noted the Hancock County Jail as being totally inadequate and a disgrace to the county.

So, what's new?

Hancock County Grand Juries have said the same thing, maybe not in the same words, for years and years.

We know one thing that has happened since the January Grand Jury recommended a new jail, and that is another lawsuit has been filed against our sheriff for sorry jail conditions.

We, the citizens of Hancock County have to really study the observations made by the recent Grand Jury:

1. Grossly outdated building—

All you have to do is look at the building from the outside to see how outdated and dilapidated it really is.

2. Fire hazard—

Any building without two exits is a fire hazard, not to mention the jail is a two story structure.

3. Improper ventilation—

We all like and enjoy fresh air, and when you have a group of people cooped up like in a can of sardines, there is no way to get any fresh air.

4. Overcrowded conditions—

There are not too many families of say four persons who reside in less than a three bedroom home today in Hancock County. In just a very small section of the Hancock County Jail, eight to ten persons eat, sleep, and do everything else in less space than two regular size bedrooms alone.

5. Unacceptable escape risk for the county—

It takes maximum security facilities to house hardened criminals. The Hancock County Jail has long ago been reduced to a minimum security facility because of age.

6. Limited kitchen space—

We wonder how many have seen the size of the kitchen in which meals are prepared for 30 to 40 persons three times a day. Many homes have larger kitchens in which to prepare meals for four or five people. To give you an idea, the range is the size you would normally find in a regular residential kitchen.

7. Unsanitary bath facilities—

It is hard for 30 to 40 people to be properly cleaned when they have to share four showers.

As we have mentioned before, Hancock County needs a new jail.

We hope you will study the situation, visit the jail yourself, or ask persons who have been there and have seen it, just how bad the conditions really are.

A new facility is needed, and we hope we get it in time.

MEC

A QUESTION ABOUT TAX STUDIES

The Mississippi Legislature has met twice now in 1984—in regular session and again in a special session. The question of taxes has been answered; sales and income tax increases have been extended. The budget has been balanced.

But there is still an unanswered question.

The question: Are we making the most effective use of the tax dollars we collect?

Studies of the state's tax structure are being made, but are we giving equal time to the study of the use of those tax dollars?

The Governor, the new Fiscal Board, and the Legislature all need to be concerned about unnecessary duplication of state services; offering of inappropriate or unnecessary, or even outdated, services; the size of the state payroll; the management of the state's money; and other items which may be draining off tax dollars which could be used more effectively in a different way.

The Mississippi Economic Council believes that any study of the state's tax structure should include a study of the use of those tax resources. The old saying that "Half a loaf is better than none" may not be true in this case. A study of ways to increase revenues without a study of ways to reduce spending may be worse than no study at all.

BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT—The parking areas at Frank Hille Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Inc., the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, and A-1 Home Center were recently black topped. These business establishments are among many in our communities taking pride in their appearances and taking action. A little painting, yard clearing, cleaning, picking up litter, cutting the grass on the shoulders of the road, all help in improving the appearance of our communities. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Companies threaten higher rates if reassessment affects utility taxes

Representatives from several public utility companies told a Senate committee recently that the present method of assessing utility company property in Mississippi is fair and equitable, and they warned that any large increase in taxes could result in requests for higher utility rates.

Testifying as to problems with the current system of assessment were two senators and representatives of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors and Mississippi Association of Tax Collectors and Assessors.

The Senate Finance Committee, as directed by a resolution passed during the regular session, is studying how utility property is assessed to determine if it is the most fair method for all the taxpayers. Some 75 persons, including Governor Bill Allain, attended the public hearing.

Representatives from AT&T, South Central Bell, Mississippi Power Company, Mississippi Power and Light, and Mississippi Valley Gas supported the present unit system of valuation.

In the case of telephone properties, the unit appraisal is considered to be the only logical and feasible approach to valuation," said Larry Reeves of South Central Bell.

The utility spokespersons also dealt with the fear that many taxpayers have that following reappraisal the burden of taxes will shift from the utilities to homeowners.

"Throughout Mississippi, locally assessed properties have remained at the same level for a number of years. Mississippi Power Company property, as well as the property of other utilities in the state, has been reappraised every year based upon current market value.

Over the past several years, this lack of reappraisal of local properties caused the property tax burden to gradually shift away from locally assessed properties and onto the customers of investor-owned utilities," said Kerry Ezell, MPC Chief Financial Officer.

"The real problem here, however, is not utility appraisal methodology, but the fact that local property appraisals have not been kept current."

"The present method of appraisal used by the State Tax Commission should not be changed. Any alteration of this method made in an attempt to offset the effects of statewide reappraisal would most probably result in an increase in the utility property tax. An increase would ultimately be passed on to the consumer," Ezell said.

"Any increase in rates charged to our industrial customers would make the areas in which we provide electrical service less attractive to new industries and expansion of existing industries and would be harmful to efforts to promote further economic development in our area. If property taxes in Mississippi become significantly higher than those in Alabama, Georgia or Florida, this might well preclude the construction of a future generating plant in southeast Mississippi," warned Alan Barton, MPC president.

He added that if taxes on existing plants were increased considerably, then the continued operation of the plants "may well not be economically feasible."

Senator Robert Crook of Ruleville, who authored the resolution calling for the study, said, "I'm here to tell you the present circumstances are horrendous. If we let them stand, the real and personal property taxes will be raised substantially. It is not the utilities' fault and I think the Tax Commission has done a good job with reference to the statutes. I don't think we are here today for the purpose of raising utility taxes. But I think the present situation is unconstitutional."

Crook presented three suggestions to help correct the inequities which he sees: pass a law to prevent a windfall to public service corporations as a result of reappraisal; pass a law requiring local tax assessors to appraise local utility property; and prior to the 1985 Legislative Session, determine what staff is needed by the State Tax Commission for utility assessment and prepare to authorize it.

Senator Mitch Childre presented a plan which he said would give some relief to homeowners without increasing utility taxes. He proposed to exempt 40 percent of the value of home property from taxation. This plan was passed by the Senate during the regular session, but rejected by the House of Representatives.

Jesse Greer said that the Mississippi Association of Supervisors disagrees partially with the appraisal method currently used.

"We do know that as a result of reappraisal the tax burden on homeowners will increase and the tax burden on utilities will decrease. More alarming is the fact that there will be a steadily increasing gap in the tax burden between the homeowner and the public utilities and other state appraised properties because the inflation factor is considered when appraising homes while we do not believe it is given full consideration when appraising public utilities. We question the constitutionality of appraising one class of property which considers the inflation factor while it is not considered fully in appraising other classes of property," Greer said.

Several county tax assessors testified that there are discrepancies between appraisal of utility properties made by independent appraisal firms and that assigned by the State Tax Commission. Tax consultants from Chicago, New York, and Montgomery, Ala. explained the two basic methods used throughout the nation to assess utility property.

Allen Bissell, director of the property bureau of the Mississippi State Tax Commission, explained that Mississippi uses the unit method which is employed by more than 40 states.

With the unit method, the entire utility system is appraised as a whole rather than each piece of property, building, or piece of equipment such as a telephone line assessed individually.

"We do not measure each piece of property as we do for homes. Rather we look at the company's financial data which has been verified. We do look at actual property from time to time."

Bissell explained.

He said that three approaches are used to determine the utility system's value — cost less depreciation, capitalization rate, and stock and debt approach.

He said that all three values are determined and then a judgment call is made to determine the final assessment.

Then, it is determined how much of the assessment is allotted to Mississippi if the utility company covers more than one state.

The final step is to determine how much goes to each taxing district within the state and this is based on gross investment rate.

Quotables by CUEVAS

We are glad to hear the Hancock County Board of Supervisors may be able to receive $25,000 from the Bureau of Marine Resources to start a beachfront repair project.

Of course the big news is the possibility of all of this leading to the construction of a commercial fishing harbor at Bayou Cadet.

The beach road has been a strong topic of discussion for several years, and some repair work has been done, but not enough to bring the road to its original condition.

We are hoping the supervisors will study the plan very carefully and feel a master plan should be developed which will carry the county through at least the year of 2000.

It has probably been since about 1950 that the beach road has been in top shape from one end to the other.

A controversy appears to be brewing over waterway speed limits in Hancock County.

There is one group wanting speed limits enforced, and another wanting them lifted.

To us waterways are like highways, and speed limits should be set according to circumstances of the particular area.

There is no question about some types of speed limits being needed on our waterways in certain areas.

We have had several boaters tell us of close calls, and had a few ourselves over the years by careless operators.

Enforcement of the limits should also be provided for with equipment and manpower.

It is a problem, and we hope it will be solved.

A lot of activity has been going on around the Hancock County Courthouse for the last couple of weeks with court in session.

A problem that faces every term of court is for the Circuit Clerk to be able to provide enough jurors.

It is terrible when only a very small percentage of prospective jurors receive their summons because of a lack of a proper address.

There is a need for a re-registration in Hancock County, and we hope one will come soon.

Many persons have moved, some many times since they registered, and only a small percentage notify the registrar of voters of a new address.

Q. I'm hearing more and more talk about small business 'incubators.' What's an 'incubator'?

A. Basically, an 'incubator' is an entrepreneurial hothouse which houses a number of small businesses under one roof.

Most 'incubators' are housed in renovated warehouses and other industrial buildings. 'Incubators' are being sponsored by city and state governments, colleges and universities, trade associations and private investors. There are about 50 'incubators' now operating around the country.

Small firms housed in 'incubators' enjoy relatively low rents and leases and, again as a cost saver, share central services—including accounting, telephone, computer and bookkeeping services. Some 'incubators' even offer their small firms advice from management and financial experts.

In short, 'incubators' are helping more and more small businesses to get started and survive.

For more information on small business 'incubators,' write to the Office of Private Sector Initiatives, U.S. Small Business Administration, 1441 L St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20416.

Trial.....

next time you go over there...wear a dress and talk in a deep voice and let her make the decision."

"It was at that moment I shot him." Then, Nicolaou said, McMillian got up.

"It was somewhat of a reflex. I shot him, too."

But Nicolaou said he and Corkern had already discussed robbing Comiskey and taking his car.

Nicolaou said he got Comiskey's gun the morning of the murders and showed it to Corkern on their trip to visit Corkern's wife.

"He said 'Far out' or something to that effect," Nicolaou said.

"When we were on our way back to Mr. Comiskey's I asked him if he still wanted to do what we'd planned to do before we left to go to his wife's house, and he said he'd like to stay with his kids but he didn't necessarily want to stay with his wife."

"He said 'You shoot him. I'm with you.'"

Nicolaou also said it was Corkern who suggested the amount of the check.

"He'd mentioned a thousand, or two or three."

Nicolaou said he 'directed' Corkern to call an ambulance for Comiskey and also 'directed' him to get more shells.

He admitted having the gun in his hand at the time, but said it was 'more or less a gesture.'

"If I had had a pencil I would have used it," he said, gesturing with his hand.

Under cross-examination by Haas, Nicolaou admitted that several times he changed his story implicating Corkern, but said he did so hoping Corkern would be released and would help him.

He admitted telling Dr. Helen Robertson, a clinical psychologist on the staff at Mississippi State Hospital at Whitfield, where he was sent under court order for evaluation, that Corkern had not been involved in any scheme.

And he admitted writing a note on Jan. 27 stating "Corkern had nothing to do with my insane vengeance. I'm sorry and sad I did take him against his will. ...I may receive the death sentence because of this but nevertheless it's true."

He wrote the note, he said, after Corkern passed a note to him in jail saying if Nicolaou helped him get out he would come back with 'hacksaw blades' and help Nicolaou escape.

"Do you remember telling us yesterday that when you and Corkern walked in the house that night there was no plan at all to commit any type of crime?" Haas asked during cross-examination.

"I remember telling you I had planned to put the gun back where I found it," Nicolaou responded.

"Corkern didn't know I had changed my mind and decided to put the gun back," he said.

"The only reason it (the shootings) occurred was because of Comiskey's remark?" Haas asked.

"Yes, sir," Nicolaou responded.

Nicolaou denied having made any 'deal' with prosecuting attorneys, and Burdick said Tuesday that the state intends to prosecute Nicolaou with full vigor and to seek the death penalty.

"Did your lawyer tell you it would help you maybe down the line to testify?" Haas asked.

"He said there's a possibility," Nicolaou answered.

Dr. Robertson testified Wednesday afternoon that physicians at Whitfield had found Nicolaou mentally competent to stand trial, and not legally insane.

He was diagnosed, she said, as having mixed anti-social personality disorders characterized by instability, impulsiveness, and unpredictable behavior.

"He had a number of beliefs about the devil, who he sometimes called the 'Reaper,' and beliefs about good and evil that are not part of orthodox and conventional religious beliefs."

His attitude toward Comiskey, she said, was one of anger, resentment and 'a lot of negative things.'

"He blamed Comiskey for the way his life was going," she testified.

CORKERN'S STATEMENT

Corkern did not testify in his own behalf, but Tuesday afternoon the prosecution introduced into evidence a taped statement he made early Saturday morning, Jan. 28, at the Waveland Police Department.

In that statement Corkern said the shootings began after someone said 'sweet something.'

"Allen said 'Oh, yeah' or something and bam bam."

"Then he turned to me and said 'Either you can drive the car or you can get shot.'"

Corkern admitted that earlier he and Nicolaou had the gun when they visited Corkern's wife.

Nicolaou had said, Corkern reported, that he hated Comiskey and somebody needed to shoot him.

Corkern said in the taped statement Comiskey asked him to call an ambulance after the shooting, that he dialed and then Comiskey got on the phone.

"Allen came back and made him hang up and shot him again."

"Then Allen told me to go on and get in the car."

"I was walking out...and heard two more shots."

"I didn't want to look or nothing. I just wanted to get away."

Corkern said he had been living in the Comiskey house for two to three weeks prior to the shootings.

He was aware, he said, that the people living in the house were homosexuals.

After they left the Comiskey house, Corkern said, Nicolaou 'was reloading the gun and holding the gun on me.'

When they stopped at the Olde Rooster Cafe, he said, he planned to put a 'couple of bucks' of gas in the car and 'haul ass,' but when he saw the girls he knew if he left Nicolaou would kill them.

"I was trying to think how was the best way to get out of it without a whole bunch of people getting hurt."

"I was carrying on with a bunch of mumbo-jumbo I don't really remember."

"I finally said 'I want out of this. You go your way. I'll go mine.'"

"After I asked if I could get out Allen asked where this road leads."

"I told him...to Parchman—and that's where you're going when they catch you."

During closing arguments late Wednesday afternoon Sills again referred to Nicolaou's statement to Corkern that someone should kill Comiskey.

Comiskey and Nicolaou had had a 'lovers' quarrel,' she suggested.

Although Corkern heard Nicolaou make the statement several times, she argued, 'it was admitted throughout the trial that Corkern never believed that was really intended.'

OTHER TESTIMONY

Prosecution witnesses during testimony Tuesday and Wednesday included Waveland Police Department Patrolman Charles James; Pathologist J.D. Rutherford III, M.D.; William Field and William M. McConnell, former medical technicians for Mobile Medic Ambulance Service; Waveland Police Department Investigator Robert

Tartavouille; and Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner, all of whom testified about their involvement in the investigation of Comiskey's death.

Daphne Lott, 15, of Kiln was called by the prosecution and Rhonda S. Curet, 19, also of Kiln, was called by the defense to testify about the armed robbery of the Olde Rooster Cafe and their kidnapping by Nicolaou subsequent to the robbery.

Both girls testified Corkern was responsible for Nicolaou's releasing them following the kidnapping, and both said Nicolaou admitted killing Comiskey.

"Remember that name—Comiskey," Nicolaou told them 'over and over,' Curet said.

Lott said Nicolaou said he would not shoot them because he did not 'hate them' like he had 'hated Comiskey.'

Texas State Troopers James Swain and David Byrnes also testified for the prosecution.

James said he received a call from his dispatcher at about 8:13 p.m. on Jan. 27 to 'check out a peculiar call' received by Mobile Medic.

When he arrived at the house he knocked, got no response, then saw, through a window, a telephone 'off the hook.'

After he walked around the house looking for an unlocked entrance he returned to the front door and found Comiskey standing in the door way.

"He had blood all over his shirt," James testified, adding Comiskey said James Nicolaou had shot him and stolen his car.

James said Mobile Medic arrived shortly thereafter and Comiskey told the medical technicians there was another man in the house, after which James investigated and found McMillian's body in another room.

Shuttle service available for Fort Pickens

Free shuttle buses will be available to transport people to Fort Pickens' 150th birthday celebration Aug. 4 on Santa Rosa Island near Pensacola, Fla.

Buses will begin running at 10 a.m. and will continue throughout the day and evening from parking lots at Gulf Breeze High School and the Pensacola Beach water tower, according to Gulf Island's National Seashore officials.

"No parking will be allowed at the fort on the day of the celebration and parking near the fort is very limited," said Frank Pridemore, superintendent of the national seashore.

"We strongly encourage those planning to attend the celebration to use the buses. They're free, they're convenient and you'll avoid the hassle of trying to find parking close to the fort," Pridemore said.

Festivities at Fort Pickens will begin at 10 a.m. with the opening of the seafood festival at the fort's parking lot. Vendors will offer a variety of Gulf Coast seafood at prices ranging from 50 cents to $5. Food, beer and soft drinks will be sold until 8:30 p.m.

Other events will include special programs and tours of the fort conducted by National Park Service guides, a Navy band concert, a demonstration by an Army color guard unit and an outdoor concert by the Pensacola Symphony Orchestra at 7 p.m.

The celebration marks the 150th anniversary of the completion of Fort Pickens in 1834.

Louis Rotundo recalls:

Keesler, the way it was

Louis A. Rotundo, a research analyst at Keesler Air Force Base's supply demand processing section, retired again June 29, 1984 nearly 44 years after he first set foot on the base.

Though he hasn't been at Keesler AFB all that time, he did have the opportunity to be a part of this South Mississippi Air Training Command installation's beginning—and remembers. He left Keesler Field in 1942 and returned to the base 28 years later.

When the Perth Amboy, N.J. native came to Keesler in 1940, he was in the Army Air Corps' cadet program. After the program's phase out, he became a baker and cook.

He recalls a tent city set up in the area that is now the base marina. It had been a city park. He cooked meals on a field range and the men ate from mess kits and slept on cots.

There was no running water and drinking water was kept in leather bags which hung from tripods. There was no air conditioning. There were flies and mosquitoes.

He remembers a Keesler with oyster-shell roads complete with axle-breaking pot holes and a sand runway. He remembers marching in the mud.

He remembers a single hangar which still stands next to the current Training Services Division building on H Street. The hangar was part of the old Biloxi Airport.

Later, when barracks were constructed on the base, there were 60 men to a two-story, open-bay building until the war escalated and that number doubled as space per person was halved.

Rotundo remembers cooking in Keesler's first mess hall across from the base's current package store.

He remembers making $21 a month, but that jumped to $50 a month when World War II began. And, he recalls that being just enough money to get by on.

"Only the top three graders were allowed to live off base," Rotundo explained. "And if I wanted to go off base in the evening, I'd have to report to the CQ. If you couldn't recite the general orders, you didn't get a pass," he said.

"When the men went to town, they were in uniform," Rotundo continued. The uniforms were khaki, starched with pleats "you could shave with," he said.

Rotundo recalls how impressed he was with the warmth and hospitality of the people of the Biloxi community. "People couldn't do enough for the men in uniform," he said.

"You could go to the USO and see notices all over the bulletin board where families were willing to have servicemen to their homes for meals, and they'd even put you up for the night. A lot of guys, when they were on weekend pass, would get a hotel room so they could sleep in a real bed. The people who would put them up for a night would save them the expense of a hotel room," Rotundo added.

Rotundo remembers how unprepared they were when war came. "We stood guard with brown sticks and mop handles," he said. "We took down drain pipes, painted and mounted them on tripods so they'd look like machine guns. That's all we had until an outfit from Camp Shelby came down to help stand guard."

On July 21, 1942 Rotundo married Mary Morengo of Bay St. Louis. Three days later he shipped out, not to see Keesler again for 28 years. The remainder of his Air Corps stint took him to Atlantic City, N.J.; Greensboro, N.C.; and to Scott Field, Ill.

From 1947, when he left military service until he returned to Keesler, Rotundo worked on a government-contracted ship out of New Orleans and later worked for a construction firm in Houston, Tex.

He returned to Keesler in 1970 and worked in civil engineering as a controller until 1978 when he retired—the first time.

After a year of managing apartments and trying to make a go of his own lumber business, Rotundo returned to Keesler. He worked in the base's training services division for about a year before moving to a supply position where he's been employed since.

This retirement, Louis Rotundo plans to reside in Clearwater, Fla., where he plans to go into the real estate business with his brother-in-law.

But in leaving Keesler this time, Rotundo feels fortunate to have known Keesler from its beginnings, to have played a part in its growth into the Air Force's electronics and computer training center and to have known and worked with so many "hospitable" men and women on Mississippi's Gulf Coast.

These things Rotundo says he will remember for years to come.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

PHYSICAL CONCEPT

Question: What can you tell me about the physical possession of real estate in regard to the rights given the person who owns it? J.J., Pontotoc

Answer: J.J.:

Each unit of real estate is comprised of three-dimensional space. This space consists of the land's surface, the space beneath, which theoretically extends to the center of the earth, and the space above which extends to the skies. If the surface unit were square, the space would form an inverted pyramid from the center of the earth stretching into space.

Possession of space gives access to numerous resources. For example, control of the surface gives the possessor use of the topsoil, crops, trees and other vegetation, man-made improvements, water passing on or next to the land and natural features such as hills or scenic views.

Control of the subsurface gives the possessor access to various mineral rights: oil, gas, coal, geothermal energy, subsurface water and caves that are directly below the surface unit. Possession of air space permits the building of high-rise structures, gives access to solar and wind power sources, prevents others from using the space and gives the possessor various other rights enforceable by law. With the advent of air travel, the right of total control of air space has been limited to the space that the possessor could reasonably be expected to use. Space above that is shared with the public.

Ownership of the surface gives the possessor control over several natural elements. Each element may be sold separately without selling the others, thereby increasing the economic worth of the real estate asset.

For answers to questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P.O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

EQUITY IN YOUR HOME
Question: With the value of residential real estate continuing to rise, I realize that I have a substantial amount of equity in my home. I would like to have access to that equity. Is there a financing technique other than a traditional second mortgage that I can use? K.C., Meridian.

Answer: Dear K.C.:

Like yourself many people are realizing that the equity in their home may be the cheapest and the best means of borrowing money for a new car, college education or an investment.

Also realizing this are financial institutions and brokerage houses who now offer a wide array of easy and simple ways for homeowners to tap the equity in their homes.

During cross-examination by Haas, James said Comiskey did not implicate Corkern during the time James talked to him.

James also said he recalled passing a 'red car' on his way to the Comiskey house that 'flashed its lights.'

The car, he said, was traveling about 45 miles per hour in a 35-mile zone.

In response to Haas' question, James said he had not been on another assignment he would probably have stopped the car for speeding.

Rutherford, testifying about the autopsy he performed on Comiskey's body, said Comiskey bled to death due to multiple bullet wounds.

He identified three bullets which he removed from Comiskey's body.

Tartavouille and Ladner testified they were investigating the Comiskey crime scene when they were sent to the Olde Rooster Cafe in Kiln at about 9 p.m. to interview Corkern.

Tartavouille identified six cartridges found in the house in the den area.

McMillian, he said, had been shot four times, twice in the back, once in the chest and once in the hip.

Tartavouille identified six cartridges found in the house in the den area.

McMillian, he said, had been shot four times, twice in the back, once in the chest and once in the hip.

The two officials testified that they, along with Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, first interviewed Corkern at about 9:35 p.m. at the cafe after advising him of his rights.

Later they took Corkern back to the Comiskey house and had him 'walk through' what had happened there, after which Corkern was taken to the Waveland Police Department where he gave a taped statement which was read to the jury Tuesday afternoon.

At the end of that taped statement Corkern was advised that he was going to be locked up as a material witness 'for his own protection.'

Tartavouille and Ladner said Corkern was interviewed again at about 11:40 a.m. on Sunday, Jan. 29.

By that time, according to testimony given by Hancock County officials and the Texas rangers, Nicolaou had been apprehended in Midland, Tex. and had implicated Corkern in the Comiskey killing.

At the end of the Sunday interview, Ladner said, Corkern was charged in connection with the deaths.

Ladner testified that as interviews with Corkern continued Corkern eventually admitted discussing plans to rob Comiskey on four occasions: about two weeks before the crime, on the Tuesday prior to the crime, on the Friday morning the crime occurred and that evening prior to the shootings.

OPENING STATEMENTS

For the Prosecution

Assistant District Attorney Gray Burdick Tuesday gave the opening statement for the prosecution.

"What I'm about to say and what defense counsel will say is not evidence," he told the jury.

"The purpose of an opening statement is not to give you the evidence but to give you an outline of what we intend to produce as evidence during the course of the trial."

"The evidence comes from the witness stand or from the judge as a matter of law," he emphasized.

Burdick outlined the case for the prosecution as follows:

"That on the evening of January 27, 1984, four men were sitting at a table in the house of Gerald Comiskey at 1320 Dubuc Lane in Waveland, including Comiskey, Keith McMillian from New Orleans, Allen Nicolaou and Robert Corkern.

All four men, he said, were living in the house at that time.

"That as the four men were talking, Nicolaou pulled out a .25-caliber automatic, shot Comiskey several times and then shot McMillian several times as he attempted to flee.

McMillian died almost instantly, Burdick said.

Comiskey was later taken to Hancock General Hospital and died during surgery.

The 'how' of the event is simple, Burdick said. "Nicolaou pulled out a gun and shot the two men."

"The 'why' is more complicated, but there is a simple version."

"The simple version is that Nicolaou, acting on his own for personal reasons or grievances known only to himself, pulled out a gun and shot the two men."

The more complicated version, Burdick said, is the one the state is pursuing in this trial, that Nicolaou and Corkern were involved in a scheme to rob Comiskey.

Burdick said the state will show that the two men had discussed such a plan two weeks before the shootings and discussed it again on the day of the shootings.

"Corkern had the idea of getting a check for approximately $2,000, by force if necessary—by gun if necessary."

Burdick said the gun, which Nicolaou took from Comiskey's room, was with the two men when they went to visit Corkern's estranged wife at her mother's house immediately before the shootings, and that Corkern had it in his possession when he went inside his in-laws' home.

"Less than an hour before the shooting took place they again discussed what would take place," Burdick said.

"Corkern said 'Well, you'll have to do the shooting, but I'm with you,'" Burdick said.

Burdick said during the course of the shooting Nicolaou ran out of ammunition and asked Corkern to go get more shells.

Then, Burdick said, Nicolaou 'trained the weapon' on Comiskey again and forced him to write a check for $2,000.

Later, Burdick said, Nicolaou, finding Comiskey on the telephone calling for help, shot him again.

Burdick told the jury that Nicolaou and Corkern left the Comiskey house in Comiskey's car and drove north on Highway 603 where Nicolaou committed an armed robbery at the Olde Rooster Cafe near Kiln and took two girls hostage.

"At that point," he said, "for reasons I cannot tell you, Corkern had a change of heart."

Burdick said Corkern helped the girls get away and that he called the police and informed them of the robbery and said he knew something about the shootings on Dubuc Lane.

Burdick noted that Corkern was not charged with the armed robbery of the Olde Rooster Cafe or with kidnapping the girls.

But, he said, the entire plan involving Comiskey's death was a 'joint conspiracy, a joint effort.'

"The evidence will show Corkern could have got away (from Nicolaou) at various times," Burdick said.

"It was Corkern's original idea that the amount of the check be for $2,000."

"The fact that Nicolaou actually pulled the trigger was of little consequence when it comes to the applicable law."

"Corkern knew exactly what was going on and what would be coming down," Burdick said.

For the Defense

"Being in the wrong place at the 'wrong time' was all Corkern was guilty of, Defense Attorney Nicholas Haas argued in his opening statement to the jury.

"The state's case is based on testimony they hope to elicit from the co-defendant, who the evidence will show is mentally defective."

"We're going to show you that there was never a scheme between Nicolaou and Corkern that a robbery would take place."

"In fact, the night this thing occurred the proof will show absolutely and totally there was no scheme at all and no idea whatsoever that anything would happen that night."

"It all happened spontaneously," Haas said.

Somehow or other, Haas said, the relationship between Nicolaou and Comiskey 'broke down.'

"Keith McMillian came into the picture and somehow some buried hatred existed in the heart of Nicolaou."

"When Nicolaou and Corkern came back something came up that was very disturbing to this young man (Nicolaou)."

Haas said a reference was made to a comment made about Nicolaou while he and Corkern were at Corkern's in-laws' house.

"Comiskey said 'The next time you go over and wear a dress...' and Nicolaou jumps up and shoots Comiskey twice and then shoots McMillian," Haas said.

Then, Haas said, Nicolaou pointed the gun at Corkern and said 'Don't you do anything or you're next,' or words to that effect.

"Then he orders him under point of gun to go get more shells."

It was Corkern, Haas said, who insisted that an ambulance be called.

It was Nicolaou, Haas said, who ordered Comiskey to write out a check and who told him the amount of the check.

Then, Haas said, Nicolaou shot Comiskey again.

"Then Nicolaou says 'We're going,' and he's still got the gun."

"And before Corkern could get out of the room he hears two more shots and turns around and looks and Nicolaou is coming off the kneeled position and shooting McMillian in the back twice."

Haas told the jury that as the two men were leaving the house they met a police car coming from the opposite direction.

"At that point Corkern was driving and Nicolaou was in back holding the gun."

Corkern, Haas said, flashed the car lights at the police car in an attempt to catch his attention.

"There was no change of heart," Haas said.

"His heart was always the same."

"Corkern's actions...were probably as careful and as rational and the best he could do under the circumstances."

Corkern talked Nicolaou into letting the girls and himself go after the incident at the cafe, and immediately called the sheriff's department, Haas pointed out.

"He's transported back to the Olde Rooster Cafe where all this questioning starts."

"The state's going to try to show Corkern's statements were inconsistent. They were incomplete."

"Keep in mind that here's a person who went through a tremendous trauma, taken back to the scene and questioned again, taken to the Waveland Police Department and questioned again, taken to the sheriff's department and locked up as a material witness."

"He probably saved the lives of four people and maybe even more," Haas said.

"Instead of being prosecuted he should be given an award."

A FAIR AND IMPARTIAL JURY

Eight white males, three white females and one black female comprise the jury for Corkern's trial.

One white male and one white female were selected as alternates, responsible for listening to and weighing all the testimony, sequestered with the other jury members during the day at the courthouse and at night at the Waveland Resort Inn.

Probably, when the trial ends and the jury is dismissed to deliberate, the alternates will be thanked for their service and dismissed without participating in the verdict.

In April during pre-trial preparation attorneys for the defendant requested a change of venue for this trial, arguing that Corkern could not receive a fair trial in Hancock County because of adverse publicity.

That request was denied, with the provision that a change would be granted if it were determined during jury selection that an impartial jury could not be empaneled.

The motion for a change of venue arose again Tuesday morning, after the jury was empaneled, but Judge Thomas again overruled it, expressing some surprise that so few of the prospective jurors said they had heard or read about the case beforehand.

A defense request for a special jury called especially to hear Corkern's trial was granted, and last week a pool of 100 potential jurors was served by the sheriff's department.

Of that number, 43 appeared in court Monday, joining prospective jurors called for other jury trials on the court docket and filling the courtroom beyond its seating capacity.

It was a long day. Jury selection for Corkern's trial began shortly before 10 a.m. and did not conclude until about 7:15 p.m. After the special jury pool was exhausted about 4:30 p.m., the court, overruling a defense objection, called other jurors from the regular venire jury pool.

Thomas said he would excuse otherwise eligible persons from jury service only if they had small children at home and 'absolutely' no one else to care for them, persons with ill family members and 'absolutely' no one else to care for them, persons who had 'one-person businesses' or persons who had served on a jury in Hancock County within the last two years.

In spite of that admonition, four of the first five prospective jurors called approached the bench requesting to be excused.

If found guilty during the guilt-or-innocence phase of his trial, Corkern, then faces a second trial phase during which the same jury will decide whether he should be sentenced to the death penalty or to life imprisonment.

"Is there anyone on this panel," Thomas asked again and again as some jurors were dismissed for various reasons and others took their place, "who have conscientious scruples against the infliction of the death penalty when the law authorizes it and the facts warrant it?"

That responsibility, coupled with the fact that the jury is being sequestered during the trial, caused obvious discomfort for a number of prospective jurors.

"There ain't no way I can get off of this thing?" one woman asked.

Although few jurors voiced conscientious objection to the death penalty, some of them stated bluntly they could not vote for the death penalty for Corkern since, as attorneys for the prosecution admitted, he was not charged with being the 'triggerman' in the killings.

Robert Corkern did not actually shoot Gerald Comiskey," Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compretta said.

"But our evidence will show he was an accomplice—an accessory before, during and after."

Thomas explained the jury would have to reach a unanimous verdict that Corkern is guilty 'beyond a reasonable doubt.'

"I cannot define 'reasonable' for you," he said.

"The state of Mississippi is entitled to a fair trial. It is not entitled to a perfect trial because we are all human and imperfect."

"And the defendant is entitled to a fair trial, not a perfect trial."

Thomas explained that Corkern has been indicted by a grand jury but noted that a grand jury hears only one side of a case.

"This defendant walks into this courtroom with a presumption of innocence."

"He is not required to prove his innocence. It is up to the state to prove his guilt."

Compretta told the prospective jurors that co-defendant Allen Nicolaou would be called as a witness against Corkern and said his testimony should be treated no differently from that of other witnesses.

Haas objected.

"I think his testimony should be treated differently. And I think the jury will be so instructed."

Compretta also asked if the jurors' decision would be affected because of an alleged homosexual involvement between Nicolaou and Comiskey.

Corkern sat quietly during the day's proceedings.

His wife Brenda sat beside him, and from time to time they held hands.

Harrison-Hancock legal secretaries to host state meet

"Getting To Know You" was the topic for the July 12 meeting of the Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association at Western Sizzlin' Steak House, Gulfport.

All officers and committee chairmen were introduced and each informed the members of their duties and responsibilities and a bit of information about their personal background.

Fall board meeting chairman Loretta Moorman announced that this meeting of the State Association will be held at the Holiday Inn Beachfront, Gulfport, on Sept. 15 and 16, hosted by Harrison-Hancock.

Also, state seminar chairman Denise Faucett, PLS, announced that a legal education seminar will be held in conjunction with the fall board meeting at the Holiday Inn from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., by guest speaker Mrs. Lila McCord whose topic will be "Motivation."

New members initiated by President Billie Ruddick were Nancy Bontemps, Marie Kiser-Cahn, and Roberta Shelton.

Each were presented information packets on the local, state and national level, and a gift from the association by Vice President Christy Freeman.

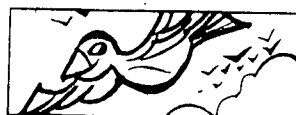

Guests at this meeting were Donna Drake and Sandi Jacob from the law firm of Bryant, Stennis and Colingo, Gulfport.

The legal education quiz was given by Chairman Patsy Bishop on correct spelling.

NALS basic course chairman, Carolyn Varnado, said this course sponsored by the Harrison-Hancock LSA will entail 12 weekly classes from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. in the Civil Defense Room, First Floor, Gulfport Courthouse, beginning Sept. 11 and ending Nov. 27 at a cost of $50 for members, and $65 for non-members.

The next meeting of the chapter will be at 6:30 p.m. at Western Sizzlin' Steak House, Gulfport, on Aug. 9.

The homing instinct of the carrier pigeon is so great that these birds can fly more than a thousand miles over unfamiliar territory and still find their way home.

Wiggins, Jones promoted

Two appointments in the University of Southern Mississippi School of Communication will take effect July 1, according to USM officials.

Dr. Gene Wiggins has been named director of the school and Dr. Dennis Jones, assistant professor of journalism, will be the new chairman of the Department of Journalism.

Wiggins who has been at USM since 1973 has been the school's acting director since October 1983. The school was given the leadership role in the field of communications by the State Board of Trustees for Institutions of Higher Learning then designated by USM President Aubrey K. Lucas as one of the three areas to become a Center of Academic Excellence.

The School of Communication includes the departments of journalism, speech, communication and radio, television and film as well as a rapidly growing graduate program.

"The graduate program has grown quickly in enrollment and quality of students. The graduate program, especially the PhD program will make the program known both regionally and nationally," Wiggins said.

Wiggins received his bachelor's and master's degrees from USM and his doctorate at Southern Illinois University. Wiggins and his wife Linda are from Forest, Miss.

Jones who joined the USM faculty in 1983 will succeed Dr. Birthney Ardoon who will return to full-time teaching after 10 years as chairman.

The advisor to the Student Printz, the campus newspaper, Jones said he will miss the classroom contact with students, but is looking forward to his new duties in administration. A graduate of Manchester College in Indiana, he worked as a high school journalism instructor for five years.

He attended the University of South Carolina where he received his master's degree and PhD. He also worked for several South Carolina newspapers and taught at USC for nine years.

"This appointment is recognition of Dr. Wiggins' proven leadership abilities and we think Dr. Jones will make a significant contribution to USM and we are glad to have him on the faculty," said Dr. Terry Harper, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Wildlife names chairman

Jim H. McCaleb of Cleveland has been elected the new chairman of the five-member state Commission on Wildlife Conservation.

The action came during the commission's regular monthly meeting on June 29. He replaces outgoing chairman Dr. Edmund Keiser of Oxford.

McCaleb, 51, has a master's degree from Louisiana State University and is a former teacher and coach at Cleveland High School. While employed there he formed the rod and gun club whose emphasis is hunting, fishing, and gun safety skills.

A successful Cleveland businessman, McCaleb is employed by the Home Life Insurance Company. He is a life member of the industry's million dollar round table. He is also a member and former president of the Cleveland Rotary Club and Delta State University's booster club.

McCaleb is a former president of the M&M Hunting Club and is a member of Donaldson Point Hunting Club and the Benoit Outing Club.

A hunter and fisherman for most of his life, he is a sponsor member and former chairman of the Cleveland chapter of Ducks Unlimited, an organization which instructs young people in waterfowl skills.

In addition, he is a sponsor member of the National Wild Turkey Association and a member of the National Rifle Association and the Mississippi Wildlife Federation.

McCaleb is married to the former Patricia Naron.

BAY ST. LOUIS ALL-STARS—Bay St. Louis 9- and 10-year-old Little League All-Stars were runnersup in the recent sub-district tournament at Elwood Park in Waveland. The Bay stars were downed in finals action by Orange Grove in the double-elimination event. Other teams competing were Waveland and Harrison-Hancock One and Two. Members of the Bay team include, seated, Stanford Dahl, left, and Gerit Carver; kneeling from left, Terrell LaFontaine, Jason

WORLD CHAMPION EXPEDITION—Quarter horse enthusiast Kinta Ann Lander, 12, of BaySide Park, will be competing at the American Junior Quarter Horse Association Show and Convention this year in Tulsa, Okla. The Aug. 4-11 event will feature contestants from more than 40 states and Canada who will compete for awards valued at $40,000. Winners in 28 events will receive trophy belt buckles bearing the inscription "World Champion." Lander's first year competing on this level will be with her registered American quarter horse Renos Boy, a 1978 sorrel gelding. She has placed among the top ten in the nation in the barrel race and will also enter pole bending and stake race events in Tulsa. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton L. Lander and is a seventh grade student at Gulfview Elementary School.

USM's Taylor recalls 25 years in coaching

It was in mid-June of 1955 when C.J. "Pete" Taylor pulled up firmly imbedded roots in a "really friendly" St. Louis, Mo., to return to his alma mater, the University of Southern Mississippi (then Mississippi Southern

C.J. "PETE" TAYLOR

College), as a member of the football coaching staff.

Asked more than 29 years and a retirement later if he would do it all over, the veteran coach said, "Yep, in a New York minute—if, and only if, Gloria agreed to make the move with me again."

Gloria, his wife, is the major reason coach Taylor will always consider St. Louis "a really friendly place." Never mind that he had a winning record (41-7-1) for his football teams at University High in the 'Gateway to the West,' and never mind that his record included three city grid championships. Most important for him was that he had met, courted and wed Gloria Bruemmer there, and it was only after she agreed to move south with him that he accepted the job at the school where he had earned letters in three sports and had been elected "Mr. Mississippi Southern College" as a senior.

His marriage to Gloria and the rearing of their five children are the only events Taylor says are more important to him than his most recent honor—having the university's baseball park named for him.

"This is a great honor, one I share with my family and with the many athletes who played for me in my many years as baseball coach," Taylor said upon hearing that the USM administration and the state college board had formally approved naming the facility "C.J. Pete Taylor Field."

A New Orleans native who came to USM from St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, Taylor was a member of the USM grid staff for 11 years and coached baseball for 25 years. He was also the track coach before USM dropped the sport from its program of varsity athletics.

From the time he left coaching in December, 1985 until his retirement June 30, Taylor served as assistant athletic director.

One of his many extra-curricular activities has been his longtime participation in the Baton Rouge Kids Baseball Clinic and the directors of the Louisiana event inducted him into its Hall of Fame in 1983.

Taylor is also a member of the USM Sports Hall of Fame and the St. Stanislaus Hall of Fame.

Like so many other former coaches,

Bay High, Pass Christian name football coaches

By Dena Bisnette

Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian high schools will have new football coaches for the 1984 season.

Cleveland Williams will succeed James "Snuffy" Smith as Bay High's head football coach for the 1984 season. The new coach is a graduate of Valena C. Jones School, Bay High and Mississippi Valley State College.

While at Mississippi Valley State, Williams played mostly on offense as halfback, but says he has spent most of his coaching career defensive line.

Williams will move to Bay High School from Bay Junior High, where he has been coaching football for 13 years. Prior to coaching at Bay High, he served two years as head high school football coach in Shelby.

His record at Bay Junior High, a total of 40 wins, one tie and 15 losses, includes wins in one conference championship and four bowl games. "We had some pretty good seasons there and were in the running for conference championships several times," Williams said.

"It's going to be a big transition changing from junior high to high school. There's a whole lot of difference. You're not dealing with little kids anymore," the coach commented.

"It will be sort of an uplift for me to have some of the same boys I coached in junior high. They know me and I know the system they're running."

Williams said he is looking forward to coaching his first Bay High team and hopes to have a good first season.

"We have some pretty good boys coming back into the program from last year, but we'll have to work hard on our defensive line because we lost some people there last year," he said.

In addition to coaching, Williams will teach Mississippi History and civics at Bay High.

Coach James Alton Wright was selected Tuesday by the Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees as head football coach/athletic coordinator.

Coach Wright replaces Coach Kenneth McKinney, who resigned at the end of the present school year.

Coach Wright is a graduate of Mississippi College and began his coaching career at Bayou View Junior High School in Gulfport, where he coached seventh grade football. Coach Wright served from September 1968-1972 as PE coordinator in the elementary schools and eighth grade head football coach at Bayou View.

In September 1972 Coach Wright moved to LGulfport High School under Coach Leon Regal and served as defensive backfield coach. From 1972-1984 he served under Coaches Leon Regal, Paul Pounds, J.E. Loiacano and Tom Freeman.

Coach Wright is a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., graduated from Kosciusko High School and Holmes Junior College.

Coach Wright is married to the former Vicki Mills of Gulfport and has two daughters, Teneka and Wendy.

BAY HEAD COACH—Former Bay St. Louis Junior High football coach Cleveland Williams of Bay St. Louis has been confirmed by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board as new head coach at the system's senior high school. Williams brings an outstanding record from the junior high to his new post at the Blue Meadow Road Tiger lair. He will be working this fall with several players he has coached at the junior high. Williams replaces James "Snuffy" Smith as Bay High head coach.

Pass Seafood Fest to include 5K run, tennis and softball

The eighth annual Seafood Festival, sponsored by St. Paul's Catholic Church, will be held July 27-28, and 29 in War Memorial Park on East Scenic Drive and Flietas Avenue in Pass Christian.

The funds raised by the festival will benefit St. Paul School.

The festival opens at 11 a.m. daily and will feature shrimp, crabs, oysters, fish and other foods. Orders will be available to eat on the grounds or take out.

Special events will include a five kilometer run at 8 a.m. July 28. The run begins and ends at War Memorial Park and runners may pre-register by contacting Liz Duncan at 452-9591 between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. or Marty Brown at 388-5834 evenings. Registration will also be held an hour before the race.

Also included will be softball and tennis tournaments and an arts and crafts sale featuring products from all over the South.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

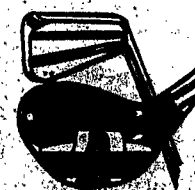

T-BALL QUEEN—Holly Lynn Dawsey, 5, was recently selected as Waveland Little League T-Ball Queen. Miss Dawsey, Little League players and coaches raised more than $800 in donations for the Little League program while she competed for queen. She is the daughter of Evelyn Dawsey and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dawsey, all of Pearl-ington.

Diamondhead Niners list June winners

Thursday, July 12, was Poker Day for the Diamondhead Ladies Golf Association.

Closest to No. 13 pin was Doris Wat-tson. First flight winner was Willie Solomon with Margaret Price placing second.

Winner for fewest putts was Corrine
Ladner.
Second flight winner was Joyce Shread with Terry Settle placing second. Nell
Perry had the fewest putts.
Third flight winner was Jean Hagg
Jo Gathen was second and Jeanne
Confort had fewest putts.

Taylor declined to reveal names of the athletes he considered to be USM's "best of all-time."

"I will say that in USM baseball history it would be tough to find a stronger right-handed pitcher than a Ray Guy or a more natural power hitter than a Wilson Plunkett," he offered. "And who's gonna kick a football higher and longer than a Ray Guy or a Jerrel Wilson?"

He said there were a few players "from my time" who could have played today. "Maybe not many, but there were a few. You take the Pol Autrys, the Joe Vetrans, the Jay Smiths and some more like them. They could have played now and next time, too."

He also declined to single out any athletic happening as "the very biggest" in USM history. He recalled old and recent football wins over Alabama, North Carolina State, Virginia Tech, Brigham Young, San Diego State, Auburn and intrastate rivals Mississippi State and Ole Miss.

There were also some big baseball games on his mind. "I remember the year when we had hardly any scholarship help and we beat Ole Miss in both ends of a doubleheader here," he said, and he also recalled the day his son Doug, a four-year letterman catcher, hit a grand-slam homer to beat Alabama.

He also spoke of a basketball win over Marquette, but there was an additional reason he remembered that school's name. It was a Marquette coach who introduced him to Gloria.

"You've got to mention the overall growth of this university," Taylor said. "It has been tremendous during my tenure here and I am positive it will continue for years to come. And you know it makes it even more tremendous for me to realize our athletic program has grown and expanded right along with the overall university."

"My family and I will always love this university. USM has done more for me and my family than I could ever do for it."

The former coach wouldn't elaborate on his long-range plans. "But for right now, let's go fishin'," he said, concluding the interview.

Matters of Health

TENNIS ELBOW

I play tennis right-handed, and my right elbow is very sore. Is "tennis elbow" just part of the game or can something be done for it?

If you're over 35 and spend the summer on the tennis or racquetball courts, you could very well develop "tennis elbow," or tendonitis. It's a very painful problem, but one that definitely can be helped with patience and proper treatment.

The condition isn't limited to tennis and racquetball players, but is common also among people who use hammers and screwdrivers. It's not unusual to hear a carpenter complain about his sore elbow after a day of pounding nails.

Tendonitis has increased along with our leisure time since more people are spending longer periods on the courts.

What causes it? There's no one single cause. Players are affected by the way they hit the ball, the type of racquet they use, the number of balls they hit, their age and, in some people, inadequate muscle strength to begin with.

It also helps to be a good player—that is, if you hit your strokes correctly, you'll be less likely to develop tendonitis. A change of equipment will help too. Larger tennis racquets allow fewer off-center hits, so they create less torque, or spin. Softer stringing in your racquet will also deliver less tension to your elbow.

The older you are, the less capable your tendons are of absorbing the stress from these sports. This is because as you age, your tendons lose some of their elasticity and develop some degree of chronic degeneration. So tennis elbow tends to strike people between 35 and 50.

In general, the more balls you hit and the older you are, the more likely you are to get tennis elbow.

Is tennis elbow a type of arthritis? No, not at all. It's a soft-tissue problem that results in aches and pains around joints, but not in them. Tendonitis in general is an inflammation of the muscle-tendon unit. Tennis elbow is tendonitis in one particular spot of this unit—the point where the muscle attaches to the bone, on the outside of the elbow.

How should I treat tennis elbow? There are several effective methods of treatment:

—reduce playing time and warm up slowly.

—set tension of conventional racquets between 54 and 58 pounds.

—place ice on your elbow twice a day for 10 minutes each time and follow with isometric exercises with wrist and finger extensions. Ice keeps down the inflammation and acts as an anesthetic for a while.

—take two aspirins before you play to take away some of the pain.

If none of the above work for you, your doctor may suggest an anti-inflammatory agent or, in rare instances, a steroid injection. Steroids are used for some people who are in acute pain, but frequent injections may cause deterioration of the affected tendon and, rarely subsequent rupture. Because of advances in the treatments of tendonitis during the past 10 years, surgery is reserved for the very few cases that don't respond to other treatment.

State agencies join forces on fish wildlife projects

The Soil Conservation Service and the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation will be talking more and sharing ideas about current and future projects affecting the state's fish and wildlife resources, according to a DWC spokesman.

In a recent meeting between both agencies the executive directors of both groups signed a memorandum of understanding, agreeing to meet and exchange information at least four times a year.

"What we have done here is open up an avenue of communication with the SCS to talk about the potential impact of SCS project plans for fisheries and wildlife, their habitats, and the mitigation of points of conflict concerning any current or future projects," executive director Lon Strong said.

In addition Strong said that both agencies agreed to cooperate for jointly giving assistance to landowners for improving wildlife and fisheries habitat through workshops, field days, and symposiums.

"I think it is important that the Department of Wildlife Conservation be included in the initial planning and review process for SCS projects, in order for us to better determine how these will impact the fish and wildlife resources of any area. I think this memorandum of understanding does this," Strong said.

"We are looking forward to continued relations with the DWC to improve Mississippi's fish and wildlife resources," according to state conservationist A.E. "Gene" Sullivan.

Strong signed the agreement on behalf of the DWC and Sullivan inked the memorandum for the SCS.

USM to open coed tennis camp Friday

Cheerleader camp slated at USM

The University of Southern Mississippi will host the 1984 Universal Cheerleading Association's summer cheerleading camp July 24-27.

Cheerleaders currently enrolled in high school, junior high school and middle school are invited to attend the upcoming four-day instructional session.

The camp will feature one of America's top instructional staffs, a staff responsible for teaching eight of the recent finalists in the nationally televised 1984 Ford Collegiate Championships.

Instruction will include classes in cheerleading conditioning, gymnastics safety and techniques, new cheers and chants, leadership seminars, pom-pom routines and private coaching on a daily basis.

Further information about the camp may be obtained by calling UCA at 800-238-0286.

ETV Brief

GANGS

Alan Ladd and Jean Woodbury star in "Gangs, Inc." on "Sprockets" at 1 p.m. Saturday, July 21, on Mississippi ETV.

Jean Woodbury is the innocent young thing in this 1941 release who goes to jail to protect her worthless boyfriend. When she gets out, she's tough and vengeful, clawing her way to the top as queen of a mob of shake-down artists.

Jack LaRue also appears in the film, directed by Phil Rosen for Producers Distributing Corporation.

A booklet is now available that helps answer questions about computer careers.

An interesting booklet has been published called "Computer Careers—Putting The World At Your Fingertips." It helps answer questions about what a career in the computer industry can offer and what career path to follow. Jump for Joy Pony Club camp meets

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The recent summer camp for members of the Jump for Joy Pony Club brought together youngsters of varying ages for four days of equestrian activities.

Club members brought their horses to Equine Inns near Kiln to practice their skills and learn new ones.

Barbara O'Meallie of Equine Inns said riding sessions were held each morning and afternoon of the camp, which began on a Wednesday and continued through Saturday.

The youngsters also picnicked, swam at the Diamondhead pool and visited the Hancock County NASA test site.

Riding activities, O'Meallie said, included riding on the 'flat,' fence-jumping, cross-country riding, gymnastics and grid-riding.

The riders also practiced military drills, criss-crossing their horses and 'threading the needle.'

On Saturday the Jump for Joy group was joined by members of the Southeast Mississippi Pony Club for a combined mounted meet.

A special guest of the camp was Dr. Tom Favre, a veterinarian from Long Beach who talked about wounds and explained what treatment should be undertaken between the time a horse is injured and a veterinarian arrives.

Also, O'Meallie said, Chester Varnado of Gulfport showed the group how to make a horseshoe from a straight bar of iron. "He showed us the best way to shoe, and demonstrated good shoes and bad shoes," O'Meallie said.

"He made a personal hoof pick out of horseshoes for each of the kids in attendance."

A special highlight of the camp was a sealed bid auction of a quarterhorse donated to the club by Allen and Joy Quinn of Gautier.

O'Meallie said youngsters who were interested in the horse were required to go out and ride it at least twice prior to the auction to be sure the rider and horse 'matched up.'

The horse, she said, went to Shantal Bordeaux of Long Beach and was a gift for her 16th birthday from her mother and grand mother.

O'Meallie said proceeds from the auction will be used to further the 'education of riding'—for guest instructors at seminars, for club rallies and to send delegates to other horse meets.

Not all activities took place on horseback.

O'Meallie said the kids stayed in tents at night, drank their way through one-half dozen eight-quart packets of Kool-Aid and gave her some lessons in card-playing.

"If you've never played poker with 10- to 15-year-olds," she said, "it's an education!"

TINY TIM TROTS—Keith Shepard rides Tiny Tim as his father, Dr. Charles Shepard, gives a guiding hand during a Jump for Joy Pony Club outing.

PRACTICING GYMNASTICS on Flag, a quarterhorse belonging to Barbara O'Meallie of Equine Inns, is Michael Diaz of Ocean Springs, a participant at a recent Jump for Joy Pony Club meet.

NEW COACH—James Alton Wright, a Gulfport High School football coach since 1972, moves to Pass Christian High School for the 1984 season as head football coach and athletic coordinator. He is a graduate of Kosciusko High School, Holmes Junior College and Mississippi College and began his coaching career at Bayou View Junior High School in Gulfport. He succeeds Coach Kenneth McKinney, who resigned at the end of the 1983-84 school year. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Public pays big price for soil erosion

By Ralph Ballaw
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Farmers and landowners are not the only ones who suffer from soil erosion. Hunters, fishermen and the general public all pay a big price for the loss of productive topsoil.

Ramon Callahan, state biologist for the Soil Conservation Service and past president of the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, believes that most people are unaware of how erosion affects them.

"More than 37 percent of all Mississippians hunt or fish," Callahan said. "And next to complete habitat destruction, soil erosion is the most destructive to wildlife."

"Many streams in Mississippi that once had good fish populations have long since filled with silt from erosion. The fish are gone," Callahan continued. "Muddy water reduces productivity at all levels, carrying pesticides from fields, causing more flooding and killing timber."

"Every Mississippian is affected by water quality," Callahan said. "The only way to slow the pollution of our streams and lakes from silt and other contaminants is to get our severe soil erosion problems under control."

Improving wildlife and water quality is a major part of the statewide Hold Our Topsoil, HOT, program. This multi-agency effort to cut erosion in half during the next three to five years began last year with a statewide field day in Hinds County. More than 2,000 people attended the field day and learned about recommended practices that slow or prevent erosion.

HOT program efforts were expanded this year to the seven Soil and Water Conservation Areas in the state. Each area is conducting an intensive program to combat erosion, including a HOT field day.

"The purpose of the Hold Our Topsoil program is to reduce soil erosion as it affects all resources," Callahan added. "In the final analysis all animal communities depend on plant communities which depend on growth from the soil."

Harvey Huffstatter, wildlife biologist with the Soil Conservation Service, said the highest per acre wildlife populations in Mississippi are found in the Delta and other river bottom areas.

"These Delta soils and river bottoms have the topsoil that washed in from the hills, making these areas very productive," Huffstatter said. "Even under the best management, the hill section of the state cannot produce the same wildlife populations as the Delta and river bottom areas."

As an example of how soil erosion has already affected the state, Huffstatter said the hill sections will only support one deer for each 30 to 35 acres, compared with one deer per five to 10 acres in the Delta and river bottoms.

"We must not let this serious erosion problem continue. The state is now losing an average of more than 10 tons of high quality topsoil per acre, valued at more than $1 billion. Some counties are losing almost three times this amount," Callahan continued.

Callahan said major erosion problems start on agricultural cropland. He cited poor farming practices as the primary reason for the severe erosion.

"One of the major practices that would benefit wildlife, improve water quality and improve productivity of cropland is minimum tillage," he said. "This practice leaves cover, food and good nesting conditions on the land. Minimum tillage also has a significant impact on reducing off-site damages to water quality."

Other important erosion controlling practices include terraces, grass waterways, field borders and special treatment of critically eroding land.

PUBLIC NOTICES "BECAUSE THE PEOPLE MUST KNOW"

JULY TERM, 1984
INTENTION TO ISSUE LIMITED $400,000 TAX NOTES FOR ARCHITECT, ENGINEER FEES

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, is hereby notified that it has adopted a resolution to issue limited tax notes for the purpose of paying architectural and engineering fees for the construction of the Hancock County General Hospital. The resolution was adopted at a public hearing held on July 12, 1984, at the Hancock County Board of Supervisors' office, 150 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520. The resolution provides that the Board of Supervisors shall issue limited tax notes in the amount of $400,000 to pay the architectural and engineering fees for the construction of the Hancock County General Hospital. The resolution also provides that the Board of Supervisors shall issue limited tax notes in the amount of $400,000 to pay the architectural and engineering fees for the construction of the Hancock County General Hospital. The resolution also provides that the Board of Supervisors shall issue limited tax notes in the amount of $400,000 to pay the architectural and engineering fees for the construction of the Hancock County General Hospital.

RESOLUTION DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI, TO ISSUE LIMITED TAX NOTES IN THE COUNTY IN THE MAXIMUM PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($400,000) TO PROVIDE FUNDS TO PAY ARCHITECTURAL AND ENGINEERING FEES IN CONNECTION WITH THE CONSTRUCTION OF ADDITIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS TO HANCOCK COUNTY GENERAL HOSPITAL, AND DIRECTING PUBLICATION OF NOTICE OF SUCH INTENTION.

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi (the "Board"), acting for and on behalf of Hancock County, Mississippi (the "County"), hereby finds, determines, adjudicates and declares as follows:

1. It is necessary and in the public interest to issue limited tax notes of the County in the maximum principal amount of Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($400,000) to provide funds to pay architectural and engineering fees and expenses in connection with the construction of additions and improvements to Hancock General Hospital.

2. The assessed value of all taxable property within the County, according to the last completed assessment for taxation, is Seventy-five Million, Eight Hundred Sixty-eight Thousand, Nine Hundred Sixty-nine Dollars ($75,868,969); the County has outstanding bonded indebtedness subject to the ten percent (10%) debt limit prescribed by Section 194-5, Mississippi Code of 1972, in the amount of Four Million, Nine Hundred Twenty-four Dollars ($2,974,000), and outstanding bonded and floating indebtedness subject to the fifteen percent (15%) debt limit prescribed by Section 194-5, Mississippi Code of 1972, in the amount of none Dollars ($0-); the issuance of the notes hereinafter proposed to be issued, when added to the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the County, will not result in bonded indebtedness, exclusive of indebtedness not subject to the aforesaid ten percent (10%) debt limit, of more than ten percent (10%) of the assessed value of taxable property within the County, and will not result in bonded and floating indebtedness, exclusive of indebtedness not subject to the aforesaid fifteen percent (15%) debt limit, in excess of fifteen percent (15%) of the assessed value of taxable property within the County, and will not exceed any constitutional or statutory limitation upon indebtedness which may be incurred by the County.

3. The County is authorized by House Bill No. 1224, Local and Private Laws of Mississippi, Regular Legislative Session 1984, to issue the notes hereinafter proposed to be issued for the purpose hereinafter set forth, for which purpose there are no other available funds on hand.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. The Board hereby declares its intention to issue limited tax notes of the County in the maximum principal amount of Four Hundred Thousand Dollars ($400,000) (the "Notes") to provide funds to pay architectural and engineering fees and expenses in connection with the construction of additions and improvements to Hancock General Hospital. The Notes shall be limited tax obligations of the County, which shall mature not more than three (3) years from the date of issuance and shall be payable as to principal and interest out of and secured by a pledge of the avails of a special tax to be levied annually upon all the taxable property within the geographical limits of the County, which tax shall be sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and the interest on the Notes according to the terms thereof; provided, however, that such annual tax shall not exceed three and one-half (3 1/2) mills on the dollar; and provided further that the millage levied for the payment of principal of and the interest on the Notes and the levy made pursuant to Section 41-325, Mississippi Code of 1972, shall not exceed five (5) mills in the aggregate.

SECTION 2. The Board proposed to direct the issuance of the Notes in the amount, for the purpose and secured, as aforesaid at a meeting of the Board to be held at its regular meeting place in the County Court House in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, at 10:00 o'clock a.m. on August 15, 1984, or at some meeting held subsequent thereto. If twenty percent (20%), or two thousand (2,000), whichever is less, of the qualified electors of the County shall file a written protest with the Clerk of the Board against the issuance of the Notes or before the aforesaid date and hour, then the Notes shall not be issued unless authorized at an election on the question of the issuance of the Notes to be called and held as provided by law.

SECTION 3. This resolution shall be published once a week for at least three (3) consecutive weeks in The Sea Coast Echo, a newspaper published in and having a general circulation in the County and qualified under the provisions of Section 13-3-31, Mississippi Code of 1972. The first publication of this resolution shall be made not more than twenty-one (21) days prior to the date fixed herein for the issuance of the Bonds, and the last publication shall be made not more than seven (7) days prior to the date fixed herein for the issuance of the Bonds.

SECTION 4. The Clerk of the Board shall be and is hereby directed to procure from the publisher of the aforesaid newspaper the customary proof of publication of this resolution and have the same before the Board on the date and hour specified in Section 2. The Supervisor Courge seconded the motion to adopt the foregoing resolution, and the question being put to a roll call vote, the result was as follows:

Supervisor Courge voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes
Supervisor Ladd voted: Yes

The motion having received the affirmative vote of a majority of the members present, the President of the Board declared the motion carried and the resolution adopted on this the 2nd day of July, 1984.

ENGINEERING BUILDING—An architect's rendering shows the completed appearance of the new engineering facility at University of New Orleans. Groundbreaking ceremonies were recently held and construction is expected to begin in late July.

UNO breaks ground for engineering building

Groundbreaking ceremonies for a $20 million, nine-story engineering building featuring one of the nation's few university-based marine engineering instructional and research laboratories were held June 15 at University of New Orleans. Construction is set to begin in late July.

Participants included Governor Edwin Edwards, UNO Chancellor Cooper R. Mackin and Dr. Fritz Dohse, dean, college of engineering.

The building, scheduled for completion in May, 1986, will house the college of engineering's departments of civil, electrical and mechanical engineering and the school of naval architecture and marine engineering. It will be located on UNO's main campus between the dormitory and the present science-engineering building.

Designed by the New Orleans architectural firm of Stanley Muller and Associates, the building will have a total of 100,000 square feet. It will provide ample space for classrooms, instruction and research laboratories and departmental offices, Chancellor Mackin said.

"The university-based marine model basin housed in the building will be one of a very few in the nation and the only such facility in the Sunbelt region," said Dr. Mackin. "The basin, called a towing tank, will enable testing of ship models and offshore structures. It will serve not only as a learning laboratory, but also be available for research and contract projects for the Louisiana shipbuilding and offshore platform industries." He added that the laboratory, which will specialize in shallow water experimentation, an important feature for the design of ships plying inland waterways of Louisiana, will contribute to the state's advanced technology programs.

Designed by UNO Associate Professor of Engineering Robert Latore, the towing tank will be 128 feet long by 15 feet wide by seven feet deep. It will have provisions for shallow water testing, including underwater windows, a specially leveled bottom with simulated current and a shallow water wavemaker.

The towing tank will be located on the building's ground floor, with other laboratories, an auditorium, student lounge, locker space and a courtyard. Classrooms will be on the third floor with faculty-staff offices on the eighth and ninth floors. The remaining five floors will provide specialized laboratories for the college's various divisions.

An internal system of computer cabling and outlets will be installed and connected to the university's central computer system. Using the latest in fiber optics technology, it will allow transmission of data throughout the building. Facilities for transmitting and receiving closed circuit television will be provided in all classrooms, selected laboratory areas and the auditorium. These will also be connected to the campus-wide television system.

The building's exterior will be of cast stone, accented by quarry tile, glass block, stainless steel and insulating glass. The exterior was chosen after careful study of the sun screening abilities of the reflective, insulating glass and of the building facade, according to Dr. Dohse.

Energy conservation measures to be applied in the building's electrical systems include ceiling fans in classrooms, use of energy-saving fluorescent lamps and ballasts, and remote-control switching of large blocks of lighting, from the university's central plant, Dohse said. Fire protection systems will be provided via a sprinkler system, stairwell pressurization system and smoke control system.

Cooling and heating of the building will be done with chilled and heated water provided by the university central plant, routed into the building via a covered walkway system, Dohse said. He added that the air conditioning system will be of variable volume type, consisting of an air handling unit on each floor with several on the ground floor as various laboratories require. The cooling system will be combined with a constant column perimeter "heating only" system.

"Legislative funding of the new engineering building demonstrates the commitment by the governor and state legislators to strengthen educational programs related to engineering and technology at a time when new initiatives are desperately needed to improve U.S. competitiveness in world markets through advanced-technology innovations and increase in productivity," said Dr. Mackin. "The new facility will allow UNO to expand and improve its already excellent engineering program."

Engineering began as a degree curriculum in engineering science at UNO in 1965. Traditional programs in electrical and mechanical engineering were added in 1972, followed by civil engineering in 1974. The department of engineering sciences was elevated to a school of engineering in 1973 and to a college in 1980. The program in naval architecture and marine engineering was launched in 1981.

Over 1,000 engineering degrees have been awarded by UNO in the past 16 years. The curricula in civil, electrical and mechanical engineering were recently re-accredited by the Accreditation Council for Engineering and Technology (ACET).

The design team for the new engineering building was directed by Stanley W. Muller and included Jose M. Fernandez, project architect; Morphy, Makofsky and Masson, structural engineering consultants; Harold Faller and Associates, mechanical engineering consultants; Schroeder Associates, electrical engineering consultants; and Richard Boner and Associates, acoustical engineering consultants. The general contractor is I.A. Jones of Harahan, La.

DR. O. WENDELL SMITH will leave his post as vice president for external affairs of Mississippi University for Women Aug. 20 to become executive director of MUW's new Center for Private Enterprise and professor in the Division of Business and Economics. Smith, who received his bachelor of science degree from Jacksonville University, his master's degree from George Washington University and his doctorate from the University of Alabama, all in business administration, became MUW's first vice president for external affairs in 1978. Since then he has coordinated the efforts of several key volunteer groups including the MUW Foundation's Board of Directors, the MUW Men's Committee, the Community Affairs Committee, the Mississippi Governor's School Parents' Association and the Presidents' Council.

Hancock students attend USM camp

Two Hancock County students sharpened their performance skills at the University of Southern Mississippi's 32nd annual Southern Fine Arts Festival.

The festival was divided into two camps—the Twirling and Auxiliary Camp directed by Georgene Love and the Dixie Darling Camp directed by Karen Quarnstrom.

The camps were composed of about 300 seventh through 12th grade students representing 40 schools in three states.

Area students who attended the Twirling and Auxiliary Camp were Debra Choat and Lorraine Williams of Hancock North Central High School.

The Twirling and Auxiliary Camp taught flag and rifle corps members basic drill and movement as well as how to design routines, and gave twirlers instruction in solo, ensemble, fire and two-baton twirling.

The festival concluded July 13 with competitions for best majorette, twirler, strutter, drum major and other honors.

New education act to be discussed at Gulf Park meet

The University of Southern Mississippi in cooperation with the Gulf Coast School Boards Association is sponsoring a Conference on Educational Reform July 26 and Aug. 2 at the Gulf Park campus.

"These meetings are vital to educators in informing them about the 1982 Education Reform Act and the impact it will have on students, faculty and administrators."

It will also provide school board members with ideas for implementation of the act," said Dr. Theron Manly, associate professor of education and conference coordinator for USM.

Three prominent Mississippi educators will be key speakers for the conference.

They are Dr. George Cannon, superintendent of Meridian public schools and a member of the Commission on Teacher and Administrator Education, Certification and Development; Dr. Ralph Brewer, director of instruction for the State Department of Education; and Dr. Jane Woodruff, consultant for performance-based accreditation for the Office of School Accreditation.

The Education Reform Act has as goals production of functionally literate graduates, establishment of standards, emphasis of early mastery of skills and evaluation of teacher performance.

Over 100 board members from the six Gulf Coast counties are expected to attend.

Di Benedetto named Fulbright Scholar

Anna Maria di Benedetto, recently selected recipient of a Fulbright Scholarship to France, says she's excited about the challenge and learning experience she'll gain from living and studying in that country.

According to Ms. di Benedetto, a senior French major at The University of Mississippi, the process of obtaining a Fulbright Scholarship requires a great amount of time and effort.

"I filled out my application in October, 1983," she said. "I had to submit a long 'curriculum vitae' and several creative projects about France."

She said the application required a close screening process by the Fulbright Foundation and then another in France. The approval of the first screen came in January, 1984. At that point, a screen by the French government was necessary before final approval.

"I received my approval for the scholarship around the second week of June from the French government," she said.

The Bay St. Louis resident's duties will include teaching French to high school students in Bordeaux. In addition, she will attend the University of Bordeaux where she will study French, international relations, Spanish and Italian. She said she will leave for France the first week of September.

Ms. di Benedetto is no stranger to France. She studied Latin, French literature and phonetics in Besacon, France, during her junior year.

She said French is her second language and that she is also fluent in Spanish and Italian.

"I'm also able to speak some German, Latin and some phrases in a few Arabic languages," she said.

Ms. di Benedetto is very interested in using her degree in French to further a possible career in the foreign service as a part of the State Department.

"I am very interested in applying for a military commission abroad so I might be able to incorporate the experience I've had with languages," she said.

Carlson takes Agnes Scott College degree

Agnes Scott College senior Cheryl Ann Carlson of Bay St. Louis was awarded the bachelor of arts degree June 3 at the women's liberal arts college in suburban Atlanta.

Cheryl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Carlson, is a graduate of Bay Senior High School. At Agnes Scott she majoring in economics and English. She was also an Honor Scholar, a member of Mortar Board, and a member of the Executive Round Table.

Growing Child

Speech and language development

Until their second birthday, children spend most of their energies practicing motor skills—creeping, climbing, walking.

But at two they broaden their skills and redirect their energies to the practice of words, according to Growing Child, a monthly child development newsletter.

If you listen to a two-year-old's pre-sleep talk when he is in his crib, you will hear fascinating monologues which contain such features as rhythmic patterning, rhyme and melodic sequences.

A distinguished linguist, Roman Jakobson, says a child's first speech resembles exercise drills which appear in textbooks for the self-teaching of a foreign language!

Let's look at some examples: "Like a piggy, had a pink one, pish, pish, piggy." Here he is playing with the "pi" sound.

Next, he plays with word substitution: "What eat? Eat soup? Eat cookie? Eat Mommy?"

And then he appears, without any motive except pleasure, to play with nonsense, although some will label it alliteration and poetry: "Lump go Teddy, not ring, ring, knock, knock, knock, lake, cake, cans, clap, clap, dan, dan, dan."

Vocabulary takes a big spurt at about two years. Some children will speak clearly from the beginning while others may be hard to understand and require an interpreter. Common types of articulation errors are "love" for "stove," "banket" for "blanket," "fank you" for "thank you," "Wodjer" for "Roger," "bedi" for "very" and "wif" for "with."

At this age articulation errors are to be expected. Even when you try to help a child correct his mistakes, it doesn't matter if he isn't ready. You may tell him to say "stove" but he will continue to say "love." It isn't that he fails to hear you say the "s" sound in stove. He knows it's there. He just cannot yet blend it with the "t."

Toddlers are word-hungry. They want to know the names of everything in sight. They ask in two ways by saying "What's dat?" or by naming the object used raising the voice, (as in "Cookie?") which is a way of asking us to verify the accuracy of the naming.

Ideally it would be nice if you could answer all questions, but this is impossible. Do the best you can and then be honest. When you run out of stamina or patience say, "I'm tired. No more questions until later."

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing. A year's subscription to the newsletter costs $11.95.

Children of alcoholics highly susceptible to the disease

The National Association for Children of Alcoholics reports that an estimated 28 million Americans have at least one alcoholic parent.

Other findings include:
1) More than half of all alcoholics have an alcoholic parent;
2) One of three American families reports alcohol abuse by a family member;
3) Children of alcoholics are at high risk of becoming alcoholics or marrying an alcoholic when they reach adulthood.

Pat Gonzales, ACSW, director of the Institute for Better Living at Bowling Green Inn, in Mandeville, La., states

Summer seminars reported

A workshop entitled "Theory and Practice of Exercise Leadership" will be offered at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Emphasis will be placed on GXT, interpretations, prescriptions and supervisions of exercise programs.

The workshop is designed for physicians, physiologists, physician assistants, nurses, physical and occupational therapists, physical educators, business and industry fitness programs. Dr. David E. Cundiff of the Department of Physical Education, will be the instructor.

Registration will be from 8 to 9 a.m. July 25 in McLemore Hall.

Students must contact the USM Office of Admissions for admission or readmission prior to completing registration for any intensive course.

This three-semester-hour class is scheduled July 25 to Aug. 16 with formal classroom sessions Aug. 11-16.

Additional course activities may be scheduled by the instructor to complement the formal classroom activities.

Curriculum Construction

Curriculum Construction for Vocational Technical Education will be offered by the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Continuing Education beginning July 23.

The workshop for industrial and vocational educators will include principles, practices and techniques in planning and establishing a class or program in vocational technical education.

Director is Dr. E. Max Hunter of the Department of Industrial and Vocational Education.

Registration is scheduled from 8 to 9 a.m. in the lobby of McLemore Hall. Workshop sessions will meet from 8 a.m. to noon.

Students must contact the USM Office of Admissions for admission or readmission prior to completing registration for any intensive course.

This three-semester-hour class is scheduled July 23 to Aug. 10 with formal classroom sessions July 23-31 and Aug. 6-7. Additional course activities may be scheduled by the instructor to complement the formal classroom activities.

LAB MANAGEMENT

Laboratory Organization and Management will be offered by the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Continuing Education beginning July 23.

The workshop for industrial and vocational educators will include organization of students and physical facilities.

that, "Perhaps one of the most effective methods of preventing alcoholism is to provide services to children of alcoholics; services that are both educational and therapeutic."

"We know that children who grow up in alcoholic families rarely have the opportunity to develop the ability to trust; they often experience a strong sense of guilt or responsibility toward the parent's drinking; the shame and embarrassment associated with a parent's drinking combined with that child's love and loyalty create feelings so overwhelming the child may not ever be able to talk about what's happening in his life and family," Gonzales stated.

"These are the kinds of emotional and personality factors which contribute to a person abusing alcohol - an inability to trust and relate to people. Left unsolved, these issues can be temporarily alleviated through the consumption of alcohol," she continued.

"Granted there are other social, emotional, physical and psychological factors which contribute to alcoholism, but given that more than 50 percent of children of alcoholics become alcoholics, this is an aspect of treatment that cannot be ignored."

Janet Wright, psychotherapist with the Institute for Better Living who has done significant work with alcoholics and their families, was asked "What does it mean to be the child of an alcoholic?"

"Mostly, it means being trapped in a situation in which you have little or no control. While the non-abusing parent may feel stuck in such a situation, the children are, in reality, powerless to leave or change the situation."

After many years of learning how to intervene with the alcoholic and how to help him or her begin to recover, professionals in the drug and alcohol treatment field are beginning to focus attention on how children are affected when alcohol abuse is present in the home.

They are beginning to discover that characteristics are seen in children from alcoholic homes and how to help them, too, to recover from this disease. Typically, these children have difficulty expressing feelings, talking with others about what really bothers them and trusting others.

The adults in alcoholic homes also have difficulty with this, and their children grow up without learning these basic building blocks needed for relating to others and, thus, achieving a lifestyle of satisfaction and contentment.

"Many times these children grow up feeling alone because both of their parents have become preoccupied with alcohol. While the alcoholic parent is addicted to alcohol and spends a significant amount of time under its influence, the non-abusing parent usually focuses his or her attention on changing the drinking patterns of the alcoholic, leaving less time and energy for parenting," Wright contends.

Work with families has revealed that many children of alcoholics attempt to assume the responsibilities of adulthood at an early age in order to meet their own needs.

Nearly always the child grows up believing that alcoholism will never happen to him and hopes that by leaving home he can leave it all behind. In reality, he carries into adulthood these very characteristics which make it difficult to relate to others and feel good about himself.

Professionals now believe that children from homes in which alcohol is a problem may be helped at any age.

Small educational and therapeutic groups for children ages 9-12 from homes in which alcohol abuse is occurring are planned at Bowling Green.

DONALD HUDSON

TANYA SULIK AND LISA LEE

Three selected by Standard Legion

Three Hancock North Central students recently attended American Legion Boys State and Girls State at Hinds Junior College in Raymond.

The students included Donald Hudson, Lisa Lee and Tanya Sulik and were selected for the two programs by American Legion Post 58 in the Standard Community.

Hudson is the son of William and Shirley Hudson. He is an active member of the Beta Club and the Computer Club at Hancock North Central.

Miss Lee is the daughter of Janice and Carlos Bilbo of Leetown and attends Union Baptist Church in Caesar. Her activities at Hancock North Central include band and flag corps.

Her honors have included English II and accounting awards, honor roll and a United States Achievement Academy Award for Business. She has also been selected for membership in Who's Who Among American High School Students and Society of Distinguished American High School Students and has participated in math and science tournaments at Mississippi College and Xavier University.

Tanya Sulik is the granddaughter of Ben and Louise McCreary of Diamondhead. She is a member of the Hancock North Central Band and captain of its majorette team. She has represented the school at the Xavier Math-Science Olympiad in New Orleans, La., and participated in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Seminar in Jackson. She is also an organist at Diamondhead Baptist Church.

DRUG QUIZ

by Curt Scarborough, Ph.D.
Used by permission, all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION - How quickly may a teenager become an alcoholic?

- a) 6 months
- b) 5 years
- c) 10 years
- d) 15 years

ANSWER - Dr. Stephanie Brown, Associate Director of the Alcoholic Clinic at Stanford University Medical Center, says that alcoholism in adolescents develops rapidly, with some teenagers becoming alcoholics within six months of taking their first drink. She attributes the increasing incidence of teenage problem drinking and alcoholism to the fact that alcohol is easier to obtain than hard drugs and is more acceptable both socially and legally. In fact, the latest report shows that 19% of high school students get drunk at least once a month.

Correct answer - a.

exists among women who are dependent on legal prescription drugs. How many are there in this country?

- a) 500,000
- b) 1 million
- c) 1 1/2 million
- d) 2 million

ANSWER - The House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control recently heard a report stating that some two million women are dependent on legal prescription drugs. Furthermore, it is estimated that some five million women are abusing alcohol, often in combination with other drugs.

Correct answer - d.

For further information about alcohol and drug abuse write Dr. Paul G. Jones, II, Executive Director, Christian Action Commission, P.O. Box 530, Jackson, MS 39205.

QUESTION - What percent age of prescriptions written by doctors are for women patients?

- a) one-third
- b) one-half
- c) two-thirds
- d) three-fourths

ANSWER - Women account for two-thirds of the more than 200 million prescriptions written annually for tranquilizers, sedatives, painkillers, and stimulants. Six of ten persons reporting a drug crisis are women. The greater use of legal drugs by women grows partly from the fact that two-thirds of those seeking medical help are women and partly from the "double standard" existing for men and women. Rep. Cardiss Collins (D-Ill.) said, "It is not uncommon for a doctor to advise a male patient to work out his problems in a gym or on the golf course, while a female with the same symptoms is likely to be given a prescription for Valium."

Correct answer - c.

QUESTION - The term "drug abuse" usually conjures up an image of illicit substances such as heroin, cocaine, and marijuana being used by men. However, a greater problem

Extension Service seeks youth agent

Applications for Extension 4-H Youth Agent positions headquartered in Leakesville, Green County; Bay St. Louis, Hancock County; and Greenville, Washington County are now being accepted.

Dr. James R. Carpenter, director, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the minimum requirement for these positions is bachelor's degree in agriculture from an accredited institution of higher learning.

Interested persons should contact the MCES personnel office with a letter of application postmarked no later than July 20.

Applications may be mailed to Milburn Gardner, personnel service, P.O. Box 5446, Mississippi State, MS 39762 or call 601/325-3462.

Applicants may also contact their local office of the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

USM receives grants for special education

The University of Southern Mississippi's University Affiliated Program (UAP) has received two grants from the U.S. Office of Education-Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services totaling $134,044 for 1984-85.

Both grants are for three-year projects which will prepare graduate students and leadership personnel from six USM fields of study, including nursing, in early intervention for socially, mentally or physically handicapped young children.

Total funding for the projects is expected to reach $423,044.

Training for the project will be offered in conjunction with doctoral graduate degree programs in special education, psychology, counseling psychology, speech and hearing sciences and health, physical education and recreation, and at the master's level in the School of Nursing.

According to Dr. Jane Siders, director of the projects, students will be prepared for roles as administrators, researchers, college professors and treatment specialists in the areas of prevention and intervention related to young handicapped children and their families.

The USM UAP is one in a national network of programs designed to train students to deal with developmental disabilities. UAPs work primarily with universities and medical centers.

A limited number of assistantships are available for the USM projects. Interested persons should contact Siders at Southern Station Box 5163, Hattiesburg 39401, telephone 268-7309.

Textbook commission appoints new director

The State Textbook Procurement Commission announced recently that Bob Tom Johnson has been appointed Executive Director of the agency.

His appointment will become effective July 1.

The textbook commission is charged with the responsibility of administering and implementing the adoption, distribution and disposal of textbooks in the schools of Mississippi.

Johnson, 41, at present serves as assistant superintendent of the Scott County School District. He previously taught and coached in Louisiana and also served as an instructor at East Central Junior College. In addition, he has worked with the Mississippi Educational Services Center at Mississippi State University.

A native of Scott County, Johnson is a graduate of East Central Junior College. He received both bachelor and master degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi and a doctorate from Mississippi State University.

Johnson is active in and holds membership in a number of professional and civic organizations. He presently resides in Forest where he, his wife and four children attend Forest Baptist Church.

SANTA FE SUNSHINE—Decorating for a fiesta in the University of New Orleans' production of Preston Jones' "Santa Fe Sunshine" are Giorgio Bertucelli, who portrays Perfecto Canillaria, and Frank Dominguez, who plays Gino Bruno. Performances are in the UNO Performing Arts Center Theatre East on July 20-22 and 25-28 at 8 p.m., with 2:30 p.m. matinees on July 22 and 29.

SUZANNE KERGOSIEN HAND

Hand graduates from USL

Mrs. Suzanne Kergosien Hand recently graduated summa cum laude from University of Southeastern Louisiana in Hammond, La.

She also received the Wall Street Journal Award for excellence in finance and management.

While attending Southeastern, Mrs. Hand was a member of Phi Kappa Phi and Omicron Delta Epsilon honorary fraternities.

Mrs. Hand is the daughter of Mrs. Phillip Kergosien and the late Phillip Kergosien of Bay St. Louis. She is a graduate of Our Lady Academy and attended University of Southern Mississippi. She is employed with Shell Oil Company in Houston, Texas.

A strain of carrots with shorter, blunter ends has been developed so that the carrots will not puncture the plastic bags in which they're packaged.

Olin continues Urban League awards

For the third year in a row, Olin Corporation, a diversified chemical company based in Stamford, Conn., will sponsor two $1,000 scholarship awards to participants at the upcoming National Urban League annual convention in Cleveland, Ohio, July 29 to Aug. 1.

The awards are for junior or senior high school students and are to be used specifically at one of the 88 historically black four-year colleges and universities in the U.S.

The winners' names will be announced at two drawings—July 30 and Aug. 1, both at 11 a.m. at Olin's convention exhibit.

In addition to high school juniors and seniors, their parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, uncles and aunts are also eligible to enter the contest for them.

The students who win must be enrolled in one of the 88 schools by September 1986 in order to receive the award.

The scholarship program ties in with Olin's exhibition theme this year, "America's Future Depends on Education," and is part of the company's effort to show its commitment to education, especially the education of minority students.

The exhibit will feature information on the 88 historically black four-year schools in the U.S., along with information on Olin's history and products.

DOUBLE COUPON SAVINGS ON MANUFACTURER'S ★ ★ ★ COUPONS! ★ ★ ★

Good Wednesday thru Tuesday with $5.00 minimum non-coupon grocery purchase!

Redeem manufacturers' "cents-off" coupons by buying the items and we will DOUBLE the value stated on the coupons, with a minimum $5 NON-COUPON PURCHASE. Our "DOUBLE SAVINGS" applies to manufacturers' coupons you clip from newspapers and magazines — not "free" tobacco, or other retailer's coupons. The only exceptions are listed below:

We will redeem DOUBLE the value of manufacturers' coupons up to 50¢.
Coupons over 50¢ will be redeemed for $1. Coupons over $1 will be redeemed at face value.

Only one coffee coupon (including vacuum and instant) may be doubled per order.

If the double coupon value exceeds the retail price of the item, you will receive the item free, with no cash refund.

One coupon per item will be refunded for double the value. All others will be redeemed at face value. No more than ten coupons will be doubled, unless the total purchase of non-coupon items exceeds 25¢.
